Indian Strikes and Riots Spread

BRITISH CALL OUT TROOPS TO HALT DISORDER

12 Reported Killed, 60 More Wounded In Outbreaks at Imprisoning of Gandhi.

SIX CITIES AFFECTED

Police Fire Into Crowds In Effort to Break Up Native Resistance.

(By United Press)

BOMBAY—Troops and cavalry reinforced police today as new demonstrations, disorders and strikes spread in Bombay, Delhi and other cities of India. Crowds renewed rioting in which at least 12 persons have been reported killed and 60 wounded since the arrest of Mohandas K Gandhi

Bombay and Delhi, seat of the British viceroy, were the centers of disturbances arising from the All-India congress (nationalist) party's theoretically non-violent drive for independence, but outbreaks also were reported from Poona, Lucknow and other cities

All-India radio reported that police again had fired on crowds in Bombay, wounding several persons. Troops were called out and posted around police headquarters.

In Delhi, where an almost complete Hartal (strike) was in effect, a big force of British and Indian troops led by red-turbaned cavalry, marched behind a military band past old Delhi fort, about a mile from the main demonstrations in the streets of the old city.

The troops were said to be on parade "to show the Indians that the British are still able to defend India from the Japanese." Whether they would go on duty as a precaution against rioters was uncertain.

The demonstrations at Bombay and Delhi began early in the morning At Delhi a crowd collected at

Polls Open At 6:30 for Light Vote

Voters Decide County And State Races By Ballot Tomorrow.

Richland county election board members looked today at the record of only 62 absent-voter ballots cast before the deadline Friday and predicted the lightest vote in years at tomorrow's primary elections.

Not only were the 62 absentee ballots the fewest cast in recent years but they showed marked contrast with the opportunity of absent voting by the hundreds of Richland county men in armed service and eligible to vote

And thus the dullest political campaign of a decade and more, a campaign which never succeeded in becoming wound up winds down to an unexciting close tonight.

Voting places will be opened at 6:30 tomorrow morning, and will close at 6:30 tomorrow night, and with the expected light vote the result in the county should be known a few hours later.

Election supplies were distributed today to the 51 precincts in Mansfield, and to the remaining 42 in the county last Saturday.

The information booth for voters, set up in front of the Richland Trust building by the Richland County League of Women Voters, where interested voters could obtain information on the records of candidates, was still in operation today but at no time were the workers, under the direction of Mrs A M Colby, chairman, rushed by information seekers However they have been kept fairly busy indicating some interest in the election

The apparent lack of interest among Richland county voters reflected the attitude of Ohio's citizens generally.

Air Force Command 'Erases' Deadly Enemy 'Guide Posts'

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Deadly "guide posts" designed to direct enemy bombers to essential war target areas on the eastern seaboard have been discovered and eradicated, the first air force at Mitchel Field, L. I., revealed today

Revelation that fifth columnists had marked certain forests and field with clever "sign posts," invisible from the ground but sticking up like a sore thumb from the air, was made by Col Dache M Reeves, commanding officer of the first ground air support command

Col Reeves released aerial photographs showing the fifth column guides and added.

You can rest assured that, although I can't tell you where or when these pictures were taken, the treacherous work they exposed has been erased."

"The markers, woven ingeniously into natural typographical points of the countryside, were invisible from the ground," an army statement accompanying the photographs said "From the air they (observers) found perfect arrows and pointers—aimed directly at airplane factories and air fields."

One of the cleverest markers, the army said, was made by plowing a huge field, leaving a section in the center fallow to form an arrow aiming at a nearby airplane factory.

No arrests connected with the bomber direction markers has been announced, although it was understood FBI men and army intelligence officers have been investigating thoroughly.

TWO RESCUED

Frightened Boys Found In Abandoned Clay Mine

EAST LIVERPOOL — (INS) — Frightened but unhurt, two youths, lost in an abandoned, five-mile-deep clay mine, were found safe today by rescue squads which combed the deep crevices and hidden passageways of the unused workings.

The pair, Robert Clutter, 17, and Donarl Mahon, jr., 13, both of East Liverpool, became lost at noon Sunday when they were separated from four companions after entering a sectioned portion of the mine which extends more than six miles into the hills.

Earlier, state police expressed fear that the two youths would not be found. The 75-year-old mine owned by the American Vitrified Products Company, has not been used for 20 years.

GERMANS PUSH CLOSER TO OIL OF CAUCASUS

Retreating Russians Reported Applying 'Scorched Earth' To Vital Fuel Fields.

ATTACKING IN NORTH

Soviets Believed Holding Near Stalingrad, Gaining In Voronezh Area.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW — Driven back by relentless thrusts of German motorized troops and Alpinists, Red army defenses before the oil fields of Maikop and in spurs of the Caucasian foothills appeared to be cracking today.

Front line dispatches telling of tremendous explosions roaring over a broad area seemed to indicate the Russians were carrying out the scorched earth policy in the first oil regions the Germans have been able to penetrate in their Caucasian thrust.

(The Germans, suddenly extending their drive eastward along the Baku railway toward the Caspian, claimed the capture of Pyatigorsk 110 miles southeast of Armavir and midway between the Black sea and Caspian. They already had claimed to have reached the Caucasian slopes on a 250-mile front and captured Maikop and Krasnodar in the northwest Caucasus.)

In large-scale tank battles in Kotelnikovski area of the Don elbow, southwest of Stalingrad, the Soviet machines appeared to be as strong as the Germans, and the Red army was counter-attacking with some success.

Five hundred miles north of the Caucasus, in the Voronezh flank, the Russians were making further headway, expanding their bridgeheads on the west bank of the Don, taking several populated places in violent fighting, and repulsing German counterattacks between the Don and Voronezh.

The Germans were bringing up reserves and still maintaining communications with their groups before the city, however.

In the oil-bearing Maikop-Krasnodar

Powerful Air Force Joins In Solomon Drive

Allied Bombers Rain Destruction On Islands But Allied Command Tells Little Of Definite Nature On Offensive's Progress.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—The Allied air and naval offensive in the southwest Pacific "already has had initial successes," the London Evening Star reported in a special Sydney dispatch today. The battle of the Solomons, expected to develop into the greatest of the war "will decide the future of the whole Pacific campaign," the dispatch said.

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia—(AP)—Powerful bomber formations of the Allied southwest Pacific command rained sledgehammer blows on enemy bases in the New Guinea-New Britain area, it was reported today, as air and sea forces locked in battle with the Japanese for the mountainous Solomon islands and their strategic waters.

There were also unelaborated reports that Allied land forces were in action.

Official reports from Allied headquarters were meager and extremely cautious at the end of the fourth day of the first United Nations attempt to wrest the initiative from the Japanese in the southwest Pacific.

But observers minimized Tokyo broadcast claims to have sunk or damaged a large number of United States and Australian warships and transports

They also emphatically questioned Tokyo radio assertions that their Solomon island defenders had incurred the loss of only seven planes and damage to two cruisers in the first day and night.

While eagerly awaiting news of the outcome of the struggle for jungle-covered islands under the equatorial sky 600 miles distant from this continent, Australian headquarters were heartened by reports from advanced bases describing the vigor with which day and night air attacks were being pressed home against the bases upon which the Japanese depend for reinforcements.

Rabaul, New Britain, a crossroads for Japanese forces arriving from their mandated islands and fanning out to the southwest Pacific, Gasmata on the south coast of New Britain, and Lae and Salamaua on the northeast coast of New Guinea were bearing the full brunt of these aerial onslaughts.

A roaring air battle took place

CHARGE OUTPUT FOR WAR LAGS

Committeemen Says Military and Civilian Officials Are Both to Blame.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The house defense labor migration committee charged today that American war production is "lagging" and accused both civilian and military officials of failure to demand maximum output.

The committee in filing its report bluntly informed the house that "our war production activities . . . are falling behind the president's goals, some of them by a wide margin" Although the report did not present figures, a member of the committee staff told newspapermen the committee was "satisfied" that its statement was accurate.

The office of war information reported Saturday that although the United States produced more airplanes than any nation in the world during June, the number was not as great as the schedule had called for. Unless the slack is taken up, it was indicated that President Roosevelt's goal

News-Journal Scores 'Beats' On Three Major News Stories

The News-Journal scored three important news beats over the week-end, giving its readers news of three major stories many hours before out-of-town newspapers arrived with accounts of the same stories.

Two of them appeared in Sunday's News-Journal.

One was the story on the arrest of Mohandas K. Gandhi precipitating an even more critical situation in India, and the other was the story that Admiral Chester E. Nimitz had announced that the engagement of U. S. naval forces in the Solomon islands was an American offensive operation and not just a contact with the Japanese forces.

Today's morning papers carried the same stories—24 hours after they appeared in the News-Journal.

On Saturday, this newspaper's afternoon edition carried the story on the execution of the six Nazi saboteurs. It was on the streets six hours before any other papers arrived with the same story.

Election Polls Have Double Task---Voting, Sugar Sign-Up

Thousands of Richland county residents will visit election polling places this week but estimates indicate that most of the people will be coming to the polls to register for late summer and fall canning sugar rations rather than to vote in the primaries.

The polling places will be used for primary election balloting tomorrow but on Thursday and Friday from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m., Richland county housewives will be making applications for canning sugar needs.

Approximately 500 election board workers and volunteers have signed up to act as clerks for the sugar rationing program.

James Bailey, rationing board clerk, expressed thanks today to the election board, its clerks and the many individuals who have volunteered to help with the registration work.

Sugar for the canning of peaches, pears, grapes, apples and plums will be applied for during the two days. With every application, the war ration stamp book of each member of the family must be presented

Bailey urged all housewives to make their applications for sugar between the hours of 10 a. m. and 5:30 p. m. as the hours from 5:30 to 10 p. m. are for the convenience of working families.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

(Note: If there were gossip columns in Germany, here are a few items they wouldn't print—revealed to students of the Main Stem by my friend Pierre J. Huss, International News Service war correspondent and author of "The Foe We Face"—D. K.)

Pierre Huss Says—

WHAT Broadway over here doesn't know about Hitler's Broadway in Berlin is that the Herrenvolk are green with envy over the worldly fame of our Main Stem and have sworn to knock it cold. The super-Nordics want Berlin to become the Mecca of all tourists, and the droopy Kurfuerstendamm (cafe and theater district of Berlin) the Broadway of the world

Before we rolled up our sleeves for a shooting war against Hitler and Hirohito, I saw the Nazi guntoter Baron Von Killinger (once German consul over here) and the Gestapo drunks with him get boisterous in an exclusive Berlin restaurant. Von Killinger was gleefully telling his starry-eyed gunmen what fun it would be some night to wipe out Broadway . . . "Ja, ja, dicke bomben—two or three heavy high explosive ones just when the theaters let out or maybe a couple of shells from one of our submarines—ach, himmel, what a fine panic and massacre of the Yankees on Broadway!"

Two nights later the R. A. F. dropped seven screaming 250-pounders into adjoining Tauentzienstrasse and blew the plate-glass out of every shop window around there.

Berlin's Broadway is longer and darker than New York's There has been a total blackout since September 1939, when war started.

When Dorothy Kilgallen goes columning along the Broadway hotspots, she gets home in the wee small hours In Berlin, Dorothy would be home and in bed by 10 p. m. Night life has backed up into daylight The cabarets start at 4 p m The movies begin their last shows at 6 p. m The opera starts at 4 o'clock and the wickedest nightclub puts the chairs bottom-up at 10 p m. The answer is that the air-raid Gestapo and police make sure that nobody violates that deadline—except Gestapo and Nazi bigwigs, who will beer and wine behind locked restaurant doors until early morning.

Last American film to be shown publicly in Berlin and biggest hit of any with the Krauts in early 1940 was "Broadway Melody." Eleanor Powell's dancing started a new dance fad along Berlin's dull Black Way and Una Merkel's non-stop gum chewing set the wise-cracking pace for the cabbage variety of fast humor.

The girl lead in the "Kabaret der Komiker," Berlin's best and biggest floor show, was yanked into a munitions plant by the Gestapo for doing a take-off on La Merkel with lines and implications from the film twisted cleverly to Nazi playboys Two weeks later, the same show's leading comedian and the Bert Lahr of German, Werner Finke, landed in concentration camp for revamping the same wisecracks in a more positive way against the Nazis Six months later they let him out and gave him a rifle to fight the Russians

Every cabaret, floor or vaudeville show in Berlin is a game of wits between the performer speaking his lines and the Gestapo. Yep, the Gestapo are nowadays the only stage-door Johnnies in Hitlerland — only they don't bring bouquets or invitations to supper. They simply walk into the dressing room without knocking and as the offending actor or actress to come along

I'd give Dorothy Kilgallen two nights on Berlin's Broadway before she'd fold up. First place, she couldn't print anything without getting Joe Goebbels' permission. And he's the main offending glamor boy who hands out priorities on apartments and food tickets to gals who appreciate his amorous passions Secondly, every nightclub would suspect Dorothy of being a Gestapo stooge and would shut up like a clam, because nobody circulates around Berlin's hotspots nowadays except guys and girls in the pay of the Gestapo You can't print anything except Nazi politics anyway So why print?

The pretty blonds and brunets who hang around to get acquainted at night clubs of the Stork type and restaurants like Toots Shors are obligated to pump you, feller They relay every bit of information to the Gestapo. That's their ticket for keeping out of compulsory munitions plant work or hard labor in war factories

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—It's the records that do it and the records hung up by the platters

It's the records, played over the air, played in the juke-boxes, played in the home, that take a trumpet-tooting fellow with a bunch of horn and fiddle players and bring him out of the nowhere into the here. It's the records that make a "name band."

Coons

Like Harry James' band It's no cinch for a trumpeter to start out on his own, after playing around with other bands. What he does when he makes the break is to grab himself a few key men and an arranger. They've got to be willing to take a chance on a fellow out of Albany, Ga., via Beaumont, Tex They've got to string along through the one-night stands and the bushops and take pot-luck on the weekly shaking of the beans They've got to keep on hoping that somehow they'll get a chance to put their music on a record, and then to keep on hoping that the boss was a good picker — good enough to put on wax the right two tunes out of all the tunes in the world.

THE JAMES boys started out three years ago and it was last September they hit the wax It was a funny thing, the way Harry James remembered that old song It guided his picking He put out one that was a sure thing—a new piece about a sinner and an angel But on the "B" side of the record he put out a tune that was twenty, twenty-five years old, just because he liked it

So the customers liked it too Five hundred thousand of 'em "You Made Me Love You," the piece the customers got when they bought the "A" side, carried the sinner and the angel and made the customers love Harry James So Harry James and band are a success. So they're making movies. They're making "Springtime in the Rockies" and they'll be making more at figures the legendary James boys of old Missouri might envy And all because of a record

TALL and handsome Harry hopes he can make the customers keep on loving the James boys for another five years—of touring recording movies He says it'll be a tough job because it's easy to drop out of the groove, especially if a band guesses wrong on records A band that makes 40 recordings a year, he says, is lucky if it scores three clicks.

Harry James thinks there won't be any new "names" for the duration, anyway The recording companies rationed on record output, won't be taking chances on new outfits but will use their platter quotas on the established gangs.

MASSILLON SETS WAR INDUSTRY PACE FOR OHIO

Receives Tribute From Army, Navy For Its Record In 'Victory Production.'

(By United Press)

MASSILLON—Massillon — an average small city whose population has been swelled to 30,000 by workers attracted to its war plants—set the pace for Ohio today in the "production for victory" drive

Massillon, best known in the past as the "cradle of football," received salutes from the Army and Navy Sunday for its excellent record in producing materials of war and maintaining civilian morale It was the first city so honored.

A crowd of 10,000 scoffed at the threat of rain to go to Tiger stadium last night to hear the praise of the armed forces for its production record and to hear its own represensatives of industry, labor and government promise even greater achievement on the home front to help win the war

In this stadium, where Massillon high school's famous football teams have forged victory for so many years, the citizens participated in a display of old-time patriotism that included two hours and a half of speech-making, parade, martial music and even fireworks

The Army and Navy recognized Massillon's war effort because

Ninety-nine per cent of its industrial producton is going to the weapons and materials of war. It has met and in most cases exceeded its production goals.

It has had no labor disputes since 1937.

One-third, or about 10,000 of its citizens are war workers

Its schools have turned out young men and women trained especially for war work

The Tyson Roller Bearing company dedicated a $1 343 000 addition to its plant Sunday. This plant was converted to war production three years ago and its employes have been averaging 51½ hours work weekly for two and a half years

Col. A. Robert Gittsburg aid to Under-Secretary of War Robert Patterson, told the Massillon gathering that "in the next 150 days you and your fellow soldiers on the production line will help decide the future course of the world Together with the soldiers in the army, you will decide whether men are to be free or whether they are to be slaves."

STEEL INDUSTRY HAILS NEW PLAN

Market Summary Says Mills Will Soon Exceed Quota Under Control-Set-up.

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND—New production plans, rapidly being put into effect by steel producers, promise to enable mills to exceed quotas, it was reported today in a summary of iron and steel markets by Steel magazine

The production plan which establishes minimum tonnage for specific products from each mill, has enabled steel plants to stabilize operation. Under the control plan, similar orders are grouped for long runs, eliminating numerous production changes and utilizing equipment to the best advantage

A serious threat to the present steel making pace was noted in the summary, however, with the warning that "in the face of tremendous consumption of scrap, current supplies are fairly close to actual needs with some consumers operating on a dangerously narrow margin"

"Carefully planned salvage efforts by the conservation division of WPB are getting under way, with the promise of uncovering considerable material which escaped previous drives," the summary added

WAR'S REALLY GRIM IF THEY CUT OUT SINGING TELEGRAMS

(By Associated Press)

NEW YARK—Telegraph messengers should confine themselves to delivering telegrams, not singing them, says Joseph P. Selly

Furthermore, they shouldn't be called on to take the dog out for a walk or make a fourth at bridge

Selly, who is president of the American Communications Association (CIO), demands the immediate elimination of such services on the ground they constitute a serious impediment to wartime communications

"The telegraph industry is a war industry," he wrote in a letter to chairman James L Fly of the Federal Communications Commission in which he cited alleged instances of official messages being delayed for many hours.

Over its circuits travel messages which make possible our whole complex manufacturing and distributing systems. No impediments should be permitted to hold telegraph operations during wartime below the maximum level of efficiency.

"The most obvious impediment to achievement of a maximum level of efficiency for wartime communications is continued handling of fixed-text messages, dog-walking, singing telegrams and other non-essential services"

Both Western Union and Postal Telegraph spokesmen, when approached on the matter, said special services never were allowed to interfere with official messages.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Back home with a mixed breed puppy and the memory of glorious experiences in an army camp, 10-year-old Roland Rado wished today he was old enough to join Uncle Sam's forces.

The soldiers gave him the dog when he was returning, a puppy of the camp's mascot. The only reason Roland came back home was because his brother was sent on maneuvers

TWO PRIVATE SHIPS CRASH AND BURN UP

Two Kentuckians Killed In Each Accident; Safety Inspectors Investigate.

(By Associated Press)

Two small, privately-owned airplanes crashed and burned in the upper Ohio river valley yesterday, and two Kentucky civilian fliers were killed in each crash.

Ross Leach, 29, and Walter Mohan, 23, both of Covington, Ky., died last night when a Culver cadet monoplane nose-dived into a residential street of Covington a few minutes after taking off from Lunken airport in Cincinnati.

Several hours earlier, a Piper Cub monoplane smashed into a hillside five miles north of Ironton, O., and killed John H. Smith, 32, of Raceland, Ky., and Carlos Wyant, 31 of Russell, Ky.

Three victims were civil air patrol members, and Mohan was a student pilot

Charles Sivert of Chicago, CAA aircraft safety inspector, was expected in Covington today to investigate the crash there. Charles Rising, CAA inspector at Lunken airport, and Howard E Crush, airport superintendent, declined to discuss an investigation they made last night.

Eyewitnesses said the monoplane, owned by Carl Ogden of Covington, dropped suddenly and brushed tree tops for two blocks before it dived to the streett.

A propeller fragment hurtled through a window in the house of Mrs Josephine Hall, 51 and she received minor cuts from flying glass No other injuries were reported, and a burned grocery store awning was the only damage listed in the neighborhood.

Leach was to have entered the Army as a glider pilot tomorrow. Mahon was a Wright Aeronautic Corporation employe in Cincinnati.

In the crash near Ironton, Smith, operator of an Ironton restaurant, piloted the plane he owned from Chesapeake airport shortly before the accident. It was his custom to fly over the farm on which he was reared, dip and wave a greeting to his mother, Mrs. Maggie Smith A sister, Amy, was watching and collapsed when she saw the plane crash into a grove of trees 50 yards from her mother's house.

Praise Civilians Who Helped Save 5 Of Plane Crew

RALEIGH, N C—(INS)—Army officials today praised the heroic action of a small group of civilians who helped save the lives of five members of the seven-man crew of an army bomber which crashed and burned as it was taking off from the Raleigh airport.

Army officials at Pope Field, Fort Bragg, listed the survivors, all of whom are recovering, as First Lieut F E Weneken, pilot; Second Lieut L. M. Magnotta, co-pilot; Second Lieut. E. J. Gideon, a former Michigan football star, navigator, who also was hailed as a hero, Technical Sergeant L. E. Glover, and Sergeant M. L. Clark. Sergeant Ross Ware was killed instantly, and Private John R. Rarat died later.

The plane struck some trees as it was taking off and crashed in flames near the edge of the airport. A small group of civilians on a golf course nearby rushed to the scene and dragged several members of the crew from the wreckage.

RED DEFENSES IN AREA OF OIL FIELDS FADING

Germans Continue to Gain In South Though They Are Held Farther North.

nodar area of the northwest Caucasus, said today's communique, the Germans were "striving hard to advance," and dispatches from the front said great shrouds of dust and smoke were draped over a broad landscape already baked by a broiling summer sun.

Pravda said roaring blasts were heard over a wide area, and it was reasonable, observers here said, to believe that the Russians would destroy the oil installations before the Germans reach them. The Maikop fields produced about 7 per cent of Russia's petroleum.

As the battle spread southward dispatches told of burning wheat fields, too, indicating that in some sectors the Russians had not been able to harvest the grain before the approach of the enemy, as they were able to do farther north.

There was no report here indicating whether the Russians who had been battling along the Black sea and Sea of Azov coasts had been cut off by the German advance south of Kushchevka.

(The German high command, in two special communiques last night, claimed the capture of both Maikop and Krasnodar, 60 miles northwest of Maikop. The fall of Krasnodar, if true, threatened the Russian naval base at Novorossisk on the Black sea. It is only 60 miles southwest of Krasnodar.)

The Russians, in their midnight communique, said they were fighting heavy engagements in the region of Armavir, 60 miles northeast of Maikop, but admitted being forced back of Kropotkin, still farther north. There was no mention of fighting at Krasnodar, a vital rail junction.

The newspaper Pravda reported that Kuban Cossacks were in action in the Armavir area and said that "in a series of vigorous cavalry attacks in cooperation with attack planes they cut up over a thousand Rumanian cavalrymen and put others to flight."

U. S., British Planes Raid Tobruk Heavily

CAIRO—(INS)—Bombers of the United States army air corps, in co-operation with British air forces, again have heavily raided the Axis-held Libyan port of Tobruk, the middle east high command announced today.

RAF Centers Attack On Railway Center

LONDON—(AP)—A strong force of British bombers, returning to the offensive against Germany after two nights of bad weather, attacked the railway and industrial center of Osnabrueck and other objectives in northwest Germany last night, the air ministry announced today.

Docks at Le Havre, France, and air fields in Belgium and The Netherlands also were bombed.

Six bombers were missing from the night's operations and one fighter from offensive patrol yesterday, the air ministry said in its communique.

In scattered light attacks by the German air force on Britain during the night, three invading bombers were reported shot down.

Bucharest traffic was stopped for several hours while the arrests were underway, it was declared.

FIND SOUTHERN STATES PRODUCE GOOD CORK FAST

Experts Think Output Here Will Soon Do Away With Imports.

(By Wide World)

COLUMBIA, S. C.—Cork trees are beginning to do their part in ending the reign of the boll weevil in the south.

For more than 2,300 years the world's supply of cork has come from the shores of the western Mediterranean but the war has curtailed imports. Private interests have turned to central California and the southern states where the climate and rainfall fairly duplicate growing conditions needed by cork trees.

The long-range program to make over the south's cotton agriculture into diversified farming is brief in contrast to the years needed before a tomahawk-like blade can separate 150 to 200 pounds of bark from a mature tree. The cork oak grows slowly.

The first stripping of cork takes place 20 years after the seedling is set out. This bark is inferior, as is the cork removed by a second stripping eight or 10 years later. A tree begins furnishing prime cork at 400 years. The poorer the soil, the better the grade of cork but the smaller the quantity.

The federal government has been encouraging private concerns. Several thousand cork seedlings will be set out this year in California, and hundreds will be planted in southern states.

A recent stripping from a 50-year-old South Carolina tree showed the cork equal in quality to the best Mediterranean virgin cork. Trees planted in Arizona were found to be bearing quite marketable cork. An extensive program of planting has begun there.

Specialists from a cork processing company found that while central California apparently offers the best climatic conditions for cork oaks, the species grows very well across the southern part of the United States through Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama, South Carolina, Virginia and all but the extreme eastern part of North Carolina.

This company set out 800 trees this year, 125 in this state. Its 1943 planting program calls for 50,00 trees in the southern states.

Eight Nurses In One Family Aid War Effort

The Red Cross would have no difficulty in filling its quota of 50,000 nurses for army service if there were more families like the Tollettes of San Antonio, Texas. Grand, Evelyn, Geraldine, and Mary Tollette.

BUILDERS OF M-3'S LEARN HOW THEIR TANKS 'TAKE IT'

(By Associated Press)

DETROIT—(AP)—Workers in the Detroit (Chrysler) tank arsenal heard today how a German 88 millimeter anti-tank gun had to hit an American-built M-3 army tank 12 times before it was stopped.

Major General Levin H. Campbell, Jr., chief of ordnance, services of supply, related the incident in presenting to the plant and workers the joint army-navy "E" award "for high achievement in the production of war equipment."

He told also how another M-3 was hit by fifty 50-millimeter, armor-piercing, high explosive shells and was not put out of action.

Chrysler recently switched from the M-3 to the newer, more powerful M-4, all-welded tank and this, General Campbell said already is at the front. The M-4's, he said, have heavier armor and are faster than the fleet M-3.

"Though the enemy may capture the first M-4 to appear on the battlefield (and he hasn't)," the ordnance chief continued, "it will take him a year to duplicate the tank, or even make corresponding improvements in his new models on the production lines.

"By that time, we'll have an altogether now one out!"

Hats behind the Headlines

There's more behind the headlines than meets the eye.

Hats, for instance. These hats belong to reporters attending the President's press conference each Tuesday and Friday at the White House.

Nowhere else in the world would a heap of hats be such a symbol. For nowhere else in the world is the news of a nation's capital covered as it is in Washington. And it is in Washington that The Associated Press has the world's largest local news and photo staff under a single directing head.

This is the staff that serves your newspaper and 1,400 other AP members. AP alone provides full coverage of state and federal activities throughout the country. HELP YOUR GROCER KEEP DOWN THE COST OF LIVING

FOR MILLIONS OF AMERICAN FAMILIES there's a store that more than any other typifies this country's spirit of neighborliness—the corner grocery store. Through the years, you have depended upon your grocer for the wholesome, delicious foods that make the American family table the best in the world. You have looked to his store as a reliable supply base . . . to his knowledge of foods as your guide . . . to his fair price policies as your safeguard. In all these responsibilities your grocer has not failed!

Today, as quartermaster to the American family, your food merchant is playing an even more vital role in your life. For in addition to his task of helping keep this a well-fed, healthy nation, he shares the additional responsibility of maintaining prices at or below levels required under the government's Maximum Price Regulation.

Price Control is one of the most drastic economic actions ever taken in this country. It affects more individuals than any other similar governmental ruling before or since the war. It is the citizen's charter of security against rising living costs. And as a patriotic soldier on the home front, you have an obligation to your country to understand the regulation thoroughly!

The General Maximum Price Regulation says that your grocer cannot charge you more for certain goods than the highest prices he charged for those goods in March, 1942. Stores may charge less. Some will charge more for the same thing than others because the regulation puts a ceiling on individual store prices. And many basic foods are not controlled in price at all.

This means that your neighborhood storekeeper as well as the people who supply him are faced with many new and exacting problems. He has had to re-price his merchandise—hundreds or even thousands of items—according to ceiling prices based on his highest March prices. In the larger stores this is a tremendous task. And in the smaller stores—where the records may be incomplete—it is an extremely difficult one.

So give your grocer a break these days. For years he has trusted you—has accommodated you—has been your Good Neighbor Number One. Remember that he still is—that he wants to help win the war just as much as you do, and knows this is one way to do it.

But he's got a big job on his hands. He's got things to learn and understand just as you have—and in many cases he's suffering losses until the whole program gets rolling.

When difficulties arise, you and your grocer should try to iron them out in a friendly manner. When he does a good job, cooperates fully in the difficult task of regulating prices, compliment him . . . let him know that his good work is appreciated. Remember that your grocer is sincerely interested in keeping the cost of living down.

Finally, don't offer to pay more for things you want than the ceiling allows—or buy more than you need. And spread this word among your friends and neighbors. For hoarding may mean empty guns!

Remember, there is no lack of any essential foods. America's reserves are great. Her total resources for food production have not even been scratched. Restrictions now in effect are to prevent unequal distribution.

For more than 73 years, the House of Heinz has had the privilege of working hand in hand with the grocers of America. Today our relationship is closer than ever. In our research laboratories we are developing new products and new preparation methods that will assure a steady supply of fine Heinz foods. Like all products that bear the famous keystone label, they will contain only the choicest ingredients prepared in the small-batch, old-fashioned way to time-tried and treasured recipes.

So remember, you can continue to look to your corner grocer with confidence in the days that lie ahead. He will continue to supply you with the finest products of America's fields and orchards at the most reasonable prices possible! For that is his way of doing business.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, AUGUST 10, 1942.

Don't neglect to vote at tomorrow's primary—if YOU don't vote why should ANYBODY vote, and if nobody voted democracy would be a total failure.

There may be a shortage of fats—but you'd never guess it by watching the slacks go by.

Unheard remark: "No policeman was watching when I crashed that red traffic light, so I'll drive around by the police station and pay a fine."

Problem of Youthful Offenders

DANGER of a moral relapse, in association with the national war effort, is seen in crime figures just released by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, covering the first six months of 1942.

This record shows that the problem of youthful offenders remains serious and that 18.5 per cent of all persons arrested in the United States during that period were under 21 years of age. The largest number of offenders were in the 19-year-old bracket—12,991; next came the 18-year-olds with 12,865 arrests, followed by 11,830 in the 20-year range.

Robbery and automobile thefts, which enforcement agencies class as predominantly "youth crimes," were the most common offenses in these age groups.

This three years is recognized as a transition period between childhood and adult life, during which an undirected course may easily result in unlawful acts which sometimes lead to habitual criminality.

In Mansfield, as in most communities, there is an effort to establish and maintain character-building agencies which at least partially offset the character-destroying elements promoted for profit.

While emphasis is being placed on financial support of war activities there should be no neglect of those essential agencies which place emphasis on character-building fundamentals and which have proved effective in preventing many young people from becoming law-breakers.

Travel Bureaus Succumb To War

A WHOLE INDUSTRY is ordered to quit business, as a step toward winning the war. Travel bureaus have been notified to close their doors by September 30. This is another move in curbing unnecessary travel, and freeing railroads and other transportation lines for war business.

It is hard on those who have spent their lives in concentrating on this special line of work. Competent travel service requires plenty of preparation. The travel agent must know railroad, bus, boat and plane routes, hotel rates, points of scenic historic interest: in short, everything that might concern the would-be traveler, in any of the 48 states of the Union, Canada and Mexico. Before the war, like knowledge about South America, Europe and the rest of the world was desirable. Even with this field cut off, there remained plenty of specialized knowledge necessary for the travel agent. This knowledge is now a lost asset.

Such a drastic wiping out of an entire industry shows that the government is overlooking no possibilities of winning the war.

Suggestions for Small Towns

SOME DIFFICULTY is always encountered in drawing the line between a small town and a big one. There are rural cross-roads villages which think they are practically metropolitan because their population increased from 493 to 512 last year, and there are cities of 70,000 which think of themselves as hardly more than villages because they are suburbs of large cities and thus acquire inferiority complexes.

But the U. S. department of commerce must have some idea on the subject, because it has just issued a "Small Town Manual for Community Action" which tells small towns and cities how they can help to win the war. It gives advice on how to promote agriculture, retail trade, new and old industries, how to lure the tourist to leave his dollar, how to improve service establishments and real estate.

Public spirited citizens and communities anxious to intensify war efforts may get the booklet free by applying to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

One general and one specific point are of special interest. The first is the emphasis on the idea that it is up to the individual community to take stock of its needs, to analyze conditions needing betterment. The other is the advice offered to farmers as to how to get town folk to help them harvest their crops.

More About America's Discovery

SCANDINAVIANS visited America in the Middle Ages, somewhere from the 12th to the 14th century. So says Philip Ainsworth Means, authority on early American remains, who has just made a study of a famous tower in Newport, R. I. This building is pointed out to all visitors, usually with the information that a British governor built it in the 17th century for a windmill.

Not so, says Mr. Means, with evidence to back his statement. Its builders were Scandinavians, or as the common term was then, Northmen. Not Leif Eriesson and his followers, who are generally admitted to have visited this country about 1000 A. D. The tower builders were later Northmen, roving from their permanent base in Greenland. Other evidence of their presence on American soil has been found by some in an inscribed stone, known as the Kensington Rune Stone, discovered in a Minnesota town and thought to go back to the 14th century.

Schools have always taught that Columbus discovered America. So he did, if a permanent discovery is meant. But the Northmen were here centuries before him, even though till lately their visits were known to none but themselves.

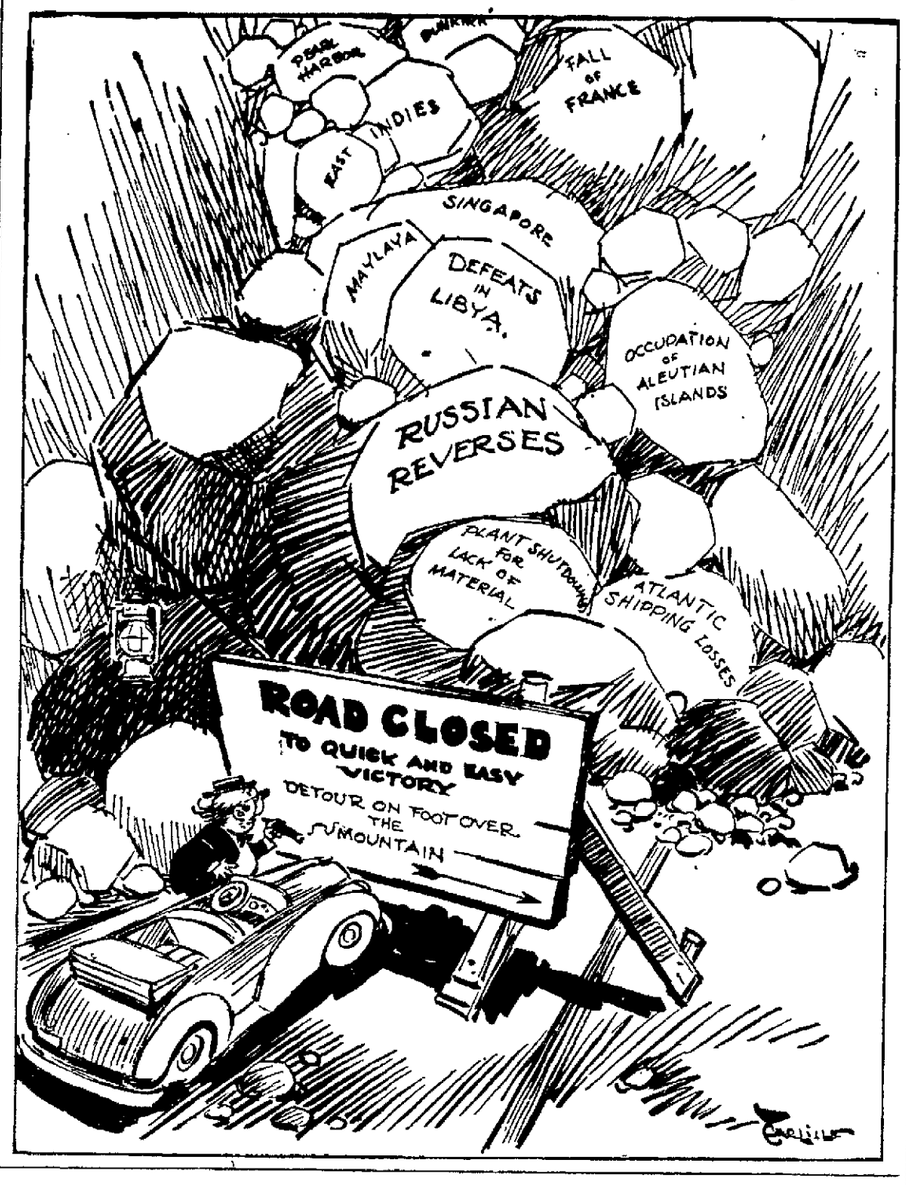
DETOUR ON THE PATH OF LEAST RESISTANCE



Consider De Gaulle as War Chief

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Agreement upon an active commander of their combined forces against the Axis is proving to be a difficult nut for the United Nations' governments to crack.

Of our own individual alignment President Roosevelt is, of course, commander-in-chief.

Similarly, each of the other countries in the democratic group has a civilian nominally in military command.

This as all right for consideration of broad general policies, diplomatic and economic in their nature. Such managers can get together and unify collective plans. President Roosevelt and Premier Churchill already have done it a couple of times. Foreign Commissar Molotov, representing Comrade Stalin of Russia, has been in on at least one of these confabs.

Washington has fairly been swarmed of late with the spokesmen of New World republics, United Nationally affiliated. As for moguls for governments-in-exile, including kings and queens, the White House lobby has been fairly cluttered with them.

But a field commander has got to deal with "spot" situations. Discussion doesn't suit his emergencies. He must be the type of guy to holler "Fire!" or, "Charge!" on his own responsibility, with no reference to orders from back home.

"Field commander" no longer is quite the right expression, either.

A field (a "stricken field," as it used to be put by literature) implied a piece of landscape, upon the surface of which orthodox soldiers fought, bled and died, with terra firma under them and uninhabited skies overhead.

"Battlefield" Misnomer Now.

Now the oceans are included.

A field commander no longer is a general or an admiral; he is both.

That mightn't be so confusing, but he is an air commander, too.

In short, the boss is terrestrial, maritime and aviatorial.

Above him is a miscellaneous commander-in-chief, but it's up to him to make the actual decisions and do it in jig-time.

So—Our need is for a terrestrial, maritime and aviatorial triplet.

But that's not all.

He must alse be a chap who will be acceptable to all the United Nations.

Far be it from them to quarrel, but they naturally have their differences of opinion as to their various relative candidacies. Gen. Douglas MacArthur perhaps is our most popular nominee. Britain doesn't oppose him, but it would like a countryman of its own on the job—not on account of outright jealousy. And yet, you can see why.

Well, there's an alternative proposed.

How About De Gaulle?

This candidate is Gen. Charles deGaulle, fighting French warrior, who stood pat against Vichy when it semi-surrendered to the Nazis a few months ago.

Charles de Gaulle has been pretty thoroughly doped out since then.

It seems De Gaulle is a thoroughly competent militarist. From all accounts, Fuehrer Hitler and Duce Mussolini learned a lot from him, while he was young in France, and the democracies hadn't heard of him.

Now, how de Gaulle would do as a United Nations "second front" commander (land, sea and air) remains to be seen.

Health and Diet

Treatment of Nervous Patients.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE ALL know the nervous person, the neurotic, the hypochondriac, the one who is always complaining, yet never really sick. They are tired, or they have poor digestion, or they are bilious, or they are eternally worrying about something that never happens, or mostly they are worrying about some part of their body.

They comprise a large part of any group of patients that the general practitioner sees, a large part of the patients in a clinic. And they are prone to go from doctor to doctor and they get all kinds of advice, much of which is contradictory and mixes them up and makes them worse or starts them out on a new tangent.

Do any of these patients ever get cured? Or even improved? Two New York doctors, Dr. Constance Friess and Dr. Marjory Nelson, started out to find out about this and interviewed a number of these patients five years after they began treatment in the special clinic for them in the New York Hospital Outpatient Department.

Surgery Seldom Helpful.

One thing that is notable about these patients is that they are particularly susceptible to the drama of surgery. They really like to have surgical operations performed on them. It was found that in the group of psycho-neurotics compared to a group of control patients about 31 per cent of the neurotics had had a surgical operation while 12 per cent of the controls had undergone surgery. Very little of the surgery on the neurotics did any good; the old complaints returned after the surgical operation and often two or three others grew where only one had been before.

In examining these patients five years after treatment began it was found that in about 14 per cent the original diagnosis was incorrect and that a real organic disease was present. Considering how many doctors believe that in these patients organic disease is present but missed by careless examination, and considering how universally the patients say, "I really am sick. I have something the matter with me but you can't find it, that's all," this is a surprisingly low figure. Eighty-six per cent went on for five years but nobody ever found anything really the matter with them.

Incidentally, to show the tendency these patients have to go to doctors, 81 per cent went to five clinics and 18 per cent went to from five to 20 clinics.

At the end of five years, 40 per cent of the patients showed no improvement; 22 per cent were improved; 4 per cent were cured. Some were worse and some had been incorrectly diagnosed.

One conclusion that stands out from this study is that such a patient should have but one physician or go to only one clinic. The tendency to shop around for medical care is not only wasteful, but is really detrimental to the patient's best interests. The one physician selected should go with the patient in consultation whenever consultation with another doctor is deemed advisable. These people particularly need to be guided from one control.

Radio Announcers.

Among things we do not understand is why radio announcers talk as though they were making a speech in an open field.

Apparently they do not visualize their audience—an audience made up of folks in their own homes.

Would they come in person into the living room and shout and rant in the manner in which their voices come out of the loud-speaker? If so, they are as boorish as they sound.—Lorain Journal.

Ask Guarantee of Atlantic Charter As Assurance of Post-War Intent

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

WHAT GUARANTEE stands back of the Allied war aims thus far expressed?

Daily the Atlantic Charter, designed by President Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Churchill in their dramatic sea conference, grows in importance as representing the probable fundamental principles upon which the new world order will be built after the war.

This new bill of rights for man, endorsed by twenty-six other nations, is a pillar of fire to lead the Allied armies. It is likely to form the basis of any peace treaty. If any of the Axis peoples should decide to break away from their leaders and make a separate peace, they certainly will be drawn to considerable degree by this magnet.

Of more immediate concern, should a compromise be reached between Britain and the Indian Nationalists in the great crisis now threatening the security of the whole Allied cause, it doubtless will involve some guarantee to the Nationalists that they will receive freedom which Britain promises to give them after the war. The Nationalists are suspicious of England.

There's no indication at this writing that a compromise is possible, but the Atlantic Charter certainly offers encouragement to the Nationalists when it says that the United States and Britain "respect the right of all peoples to choose the form of government under which they will live."

Still, we are told that the Atlantic Charter isn't bonded. Lord Bennett, Canadian-born and one-time prime minister of the dominion, has raised this question by telling the British house of lords that the charter "is nothing more than the expression of hopes and aspirations on the part of the president of the United States and our prime minister."

Lord Bennett pointed out that American legislation giving force to operation of the charter declarations could only become effective after senate approval, and he called attention to the senate's refusal after the first World war to accept the League of Nations which President Wilson had sponsored and included in his famous fourteen points. His lordship added:

"Nothing could be more fatal than to make a declaration of views with respect to peace and then have our (Britain's) enemies, defeated, saying they relied upon statements which we made but to which we could not give effect because they were our declarations and not the declarations of everyone concerned with us.

"Here the prime minister could bind the government and country or else go out of office in the endeavor to give effect to his conclusions. In the United States this is not so."

Lord Bennett didn't explain the unusual circumstances surrounding the rejection of the League of Nations. One of the senate's objections was to the famous Article Ten under which members undertook to "preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the league." Coupled with that far-reaching commitment was the fact that the British empire had six votes as against one for the United States. Furthermore, opponents of the league charged that Mr. Wilson had approved the league covenant without proper consultation with senate leaders.

However, Lord Bennett has created in the public mind the question of why, if the Atlantic Charter is merely an "expression of hopes and aspirations," the legislatures of both the United States and Britain don't consider the charter formally and vote their approval or disapproval of it. That would be calculated to clear up any doubts. I'm getting inquiries along that line, but the only ones who can answer are the lawmakers themselves.

Man About Manhattan

He Never Forgets

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Howard Barlow's peculiar talent for remembering long lost faces got a good work-out during last week's rehearsal of the Everybody's Music hour. The senior conductor for CBS glanced down at one of his trumpet players and yelled, "Okay, Huckleberry." The player grinned, and went right on playing.

It seems that 12 years ago a trumpet player called on Barlow and played an audition. The piece he played was "Huckleberry Finn." Barlow never forgot the man's face. Until the moment he glanced down and saw him in the brass section of the CBS orchestra they hadn't crossed paths. Barlow didn't know the man's name, but he remembered the piece he had auditioned more than a decade ago.

Barlow's memory is a matter of comment. He reads a score through once, closes it and never looks at it again. From this one reading he is able to conduct an entire symphony. Toscanini does this, too. He always conducts from memory.

A third facet to Barlow's peculiar memory is that he never forgets an error that one of his musicians makes. If a fiddle player fluffs a note at a certain point in a certain composition, Barlow will flinch everytime they come to that point. He is on edge lest the player repeat the mistake. But, they seldom do.

Barlow himself is tall, slim, and has an unsually high forehead—"A musician's forehead." . . . As a matter of fact, the forehead is greatly reminiscent of the late Houdini's. Barlow is an Ohioan, is 45, and is called the "Father of American Music." The reason for this is that he insists that at least one American composition be played on each concert he conducts.

THE cow waddies from the studio lots report a change in the saddlery as employed by the producers of horse operas. Bob Wills, who is a cowboy actor for Columbia and who recently spent a lot of coin for a fancy silver mounted saddle which he hoped to use in a forthcoming picture, "Trail's End," was told by his studio that only villains could wear the highly ornamented saddles from now on. How come? All that fancy silver on a hero would look unpatriotic in these times of scrap metal drives.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Those Washington parasites have been found—hundreds of them. They are not the ones that the President was talking about, however, when he suggested some months ago that the capital parasites should get out of town to relieve congestion.

They are not ones that many government officials would talk about, if you can take the word of a young lady employed there. And incidentally the young lady upsets the oft-repeated plaint that ALL federal war workers are overworked.

WHEN Jerry Klutz, the Washington Post authority on federal employes and their activities, went on vacation, he asked some of the persons he writes for and about to fill in for him. An employe right in the Civil Service Commission (and it was only the best of a score of similar articles submitted) wrote in part, the following:

"I am one of the parasites.

"I draw $1,620 a year. If I didn't exist, 1,620 American dollars could be directed into war channels instead of into my salary; 160 Americans could have $10 a year lopped off their income taxes; 16 of the little fellows might have to pay no income tax at all.

"Do I like being a parasite? You bet your life I don't. I do NOT feel honored or even lucky that I am one of the huge number of government workers who spend their days killing time—whose hardest task is standing in line to cash their checks on pay day.

WE are a great army, we parasites. And almost unanimously we don't like it. But someone must like it—for we are retained in easy, effortless, and valueless positions despite the fact that the nation is supposed to be mobilized for war.

"This is my apology for being a parasite. Resigning is useless—my place would be immediately filled by another parasite."

The young lady went on to say that she is seeking a real working job in her own department or in some other but so far has been balked. She explains that she is a very capable person, has an almost complete college degree, a record of several successful years in private industry, and has taken only three days sick leave in five years.

The causes that breed parasites, she charges, are "the rank stupidity of persons in supervisory positions in the offices concerned" and the inefficiency of government methods and personnel offices.

THERE are many people, I agree, who are overworked," she continues, "and yet add hours of overtime which count importantly toward cleaning up the work of the government of a country at war. Perhaps three-fourths of the government workers come within this category. But the other one-fourth is waste timber and should be cleaned out before another worker is brought into this already overcrowded city."

Private Cliffe Tells About USO

CONTRIBUTORS to the United Service Organizations, who may sometimes wonder about the work being done by USO, will be interested in the following excerpts from a letter received from Frederick Cliffe, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. S. Cliffe, 287 West Fourth street, who is now in military service and stationed at Albuquerque, N. M.

Frederick, who was formerly employed by The News-Journal, says:

"To me, the USO is like home. The building is quite large and the lower floor has a bowling alley, pool room, snack bar and recreation room.

"The main floor consists of the writing room and dance floor, and when the floor is not in use the room is turned into a living room, with comfortable chairs and a large variety of books on the shelves. There is also a combination phonograph-radio in this room and another in the writing room, which can be used at any time. Writing paper and cookies are free.

"Every night of the week the USO sponsors some form of entertainment or trip. Dances are held Saturday evenings and free dancing lessons are given Wednesday and Friday evenings.

"A Sunday afternoon trip to the Coronado monuments, about 25 miles north of here, is very interesting. The monuments were built about 1300 A. D., by the Pueblo Indians."

A Farmer's Diary

King Rail

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I HOED in the potato patch, bordering the calamus swamp, when I was startled by a peculiar high note, three times in succession, "Beep, beep, beep!"

I looked about, but saw no moving thing. I walked toward the clump of weeds, in the direction of the sound—"Beep, beep," it came again, more shrill, than before. Along the grass grown furrow, perhaps three feet away, a brown, sullen bird spread out her wings and careened along the ground like a broody hen. The pretty, mottled brown feathers were ruffled, and the lower wing tips moved heavily against the solid ground. The bird was strange to me.

I stopped. She became still more enraged, screamed again defiantly, and thrust out her long drab pinkish beak. This swamp was her home, she declared, and I was an intruder...so she faced me squarely with dark eyes flashing, and hesitating twice before she quite dared to strike, she flew straight against my naked ankles. Sharp claws pierced the skin and her beak bruised my flesh, while the low wings flapped me viciously.

Her boldness and her vigorous combativeness delighted me. Possession is nine-tenths of ownership. It was evident that the swamp belonged to her. When she sensed that I would intrude no farther, she walked with peculiar jerks of head and tail, along a grassy path and slipped out of sight among the tall reeds of the swamp.

That evening when the boys brought Betsy the cow up for milking, she attacked them, too. She flew hard against the cow's hurrying feet and scratched the bare legs of the oldest boy. Her angry, urgent strident cries were a foreign element in our quiet swamp. I went to a bird book to identify her.

Her name, I soon discovered, was Mrs. King Rail. She builds a canopied nest, among reeds or calamus blades, and lays a dozen or more spotted and buff-colored eggs, smaller than those of a quail. The hatchlings are a sable, downy lot that follow their mother through marshy spots, and listen for a low sweet note that she keeps for them. I shall add the newcomer "king rail," to the list of wild folk—muskrat, raccoon, weasel, skunk, red wing blackbird, pheasant quail, many kinds of mice, aquatic insects and water animals—that live in our calamus swamp.

AMERICAN AIR POWER JOINS IN SOLOMON FIGHT

Planes Rain Death on Japs; Command Reveals Little of Battle's Progress.

over Rabaul in one of these attacks Saturday when 20 Zeros rose to war off big four-motored flying fortresses which dropped low to blast the airdrome with 2,000-pound and numerous 100-pound explosives.

Seven of the fighters were shot down, and the raiders believed many of the others crashed when they attempted to land on the bomb-riddled runways.

Latest word on the continuing action in the Solomons indicated the initiative remained with the American fleet and other Allied forces which joined the battle Friday.

This information was relayed from Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, U. S. Pacific naval commander. He gave no details as to the scope of the area under attack or the extent of the operations but all signs were that the drive might be developing into a major offensive.

Admiral Nimitz said the attack, on the Tulagi area in the southeast part of the Solomons, 600 miles off northeastern Australia, was being pressed by sea and air against Japanese land-based planes and garrisons and that "the operations are progressing favorably despite enemy opposition."

A brief communique issued in Washington late yesterday said that "considerable enemy resistance has been encountered and it is still too early to announce results or to estimate either our own or enemy losses."

The Japanese—without confirmation from any Allied source—broadcast claims from Tokyo that they had sunk 22 Allied warships and transports and damaged more than six others. These enemy claims were considered in the light of their fanciful reports on results of the Midway and Coral sea battles—both stunning Japanese defeats.

Allied sources failed to mention the presence of any transports in the attacking fleet but Admiral Nimitz's reference to enemy land garrisons was interpreted as intimating that the operation was amphibious.

Sunday's communique from MacArthur's headquarters, without mentioning the Solomon islands battle itself, reported Sunday attacks by Allied planes on three enemy bases in New Guinea and New Britain.

The Allied bombers struck both by day and night at the key Japanese base, Rabaul, shooting down five enemy Zero fighters with the loss of one Allied bomber; raided Gasmata, also in New Britain; and inflicted new and heavy destruction at Salamaua, New Guinea.

Coinciding with the attack on the Solomons, a task force of the U. S. Pacific fleet went into action thousands of miles to the north, bombarding Japanese ships and shore bases at Kiska, one of three enemy-occupied Aleutian islands stretching southwest of Alaska.

A Washington communique indicated this attack was over but results probably will not be known until the attacking force returns to its base.

Capital Grimly Waits Battle Result

WASHINGTON —(INS)— With all indications pointing to a decisive struggle to protect the vital U. S.-Australia life line, Washington today grimly awaited the results of the air, land and sea offensive against the Jap-held Solomon islands, aware that the outcome would offer the first real measurement of American striking power.

As the second battle of the Coral sea entered its fourth day, only the barest information was available in this nation's capital concerning the engagement. The navy confined brief communiques issued over the week-end to mere statements that a major offensive was being undertaken for the first time.

However, piercing together information from the navy department and statements from the headquarters of Admiral Nimitz in Honolulu and General Douglas MacArthur in Australia, Washington was convinced that the large-scale offensive was undertaken to thwart any further Japanese expansion in the Coral sea area which might bring the enemy closer to the South Pacific life-line which ties Australia to its one principal source of aid—the United States.

American Planes Hit Indo-China Base

CHUNGKING — (AP) — United States planes delivered a concentrated bombardment of the waterfront at Haiphong, French Indo-China, yesterday, without loss to themselves, the Chinese reported today.

There was extensive damage, it was said, and steamers in port were hit. It was the first raid on Haiphong by raiders based in China.

Haiphong has been used by the Japanese as a port of entry into the French colony since September, 1940, when Vichy made its first accord with Tokyo. It is located in the north, on the Gulf of Tonkin.

Ex-Tiger Leads U. S. Planes On Heavy Raid

HENGYANG, China—(U.P.)—United States fighter planes, led personally by Col. Robert L. Scott, today bombed the Japanese base at Hsienning with "great success."

Hsienning is about 30 miles southwest of Hankow. The raid was carried out in the afternoon.

Scott, whose home is at Macon, Ga., is commander of the United States pursuit group in China, operating under Brig. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, commander of all American aviation forces in China. He is a former A. V. G. (Flying Tiger) pilot.

The American pilots dropped their bombs on enemy ammunition dumps, military warehouses and other buildings at Hsienning.

Pilots reported that their explosives landed in the target areas and destroyed most of the buildings.

SCARE U-BOAT WITH FLAGPOLE

Passengers on British Ship Tell How Axis Sub Was Hoaxed.

(By United Press)

LIVERPOOL—How a flagstaff, made to look like a four-inch gun, scared off a U-boat has been described by Liverpool survivors of the Empress of Asia.

Rescued from the Empress of Asia, the men were on board a flat-bottomed Chinese river boat carrying several hundred troops and 500 tons of bombs to Colombo, Ceylon.

Suddenly two torpedoes sped under the shallow craft and a large submarine surfaced to make the "kill." The boat was turned in the direction of the submarine, which was forced to submerge.

Half-a-dozen rafts were covered with tarpaulin and a flagstaff was pushed through it, to look like a four-inch gun. When the submarine's periscope broke the surface again it was covered by a formidable looking "gun" and it quickly vanished.

Keep Machinery In Good Repair, Farmers Urged

ITHACA, N. Y.—(INS)—With labor scarce, evidence of the importance of the current drive to repair farm machinery in New York state is shown in a recent survey at Cornell, comparing time and labor spent for various farm jobs when horses and other forms of power were used.

The time required to plow an acre with a two-horse team and a 12-inch walking plow was 6.6 hours, as compared with 2 hours for a tractor an da two-bottom 12-inch plow. Plowing with a tractor cost less than one-half as much as did plowing with a team, said J. P. Hertel and Paul Williamson, who studied practices on nearly 500 farms.

In fitting ground, tractor-drawn spring-tooth harrows covered 20 acres a day, or about three time as much as horse-drawn harrows. Disc harrows pulled by tractors covered 14 acres a day, or twice as fast as horses did the work.

Farmers did nine acres of hay a day with horse-drawn mowers. With tractor mowers, they cut 15 acres a day. The faster rate of work more than offset the higher cost of the tractor mowers. With hay loaders, it required only 20 minutes to load a wagon.

Notes In Bottles Still Bob Across The Seven Seas

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Messages in bottles are still bobbing across the high seas!

How these glass envelopes, reminiscent of pirate treasure maps, are used to calculate tides and drifts for the service of ships was related recently by the Navy's Hydrographic Office.

Ships' masters, when at sea, note their latitude and longitude, date their papers and cast them sealed in bottles overboard with no particular destination. The destination is left to the discretion of the tide, the subject to be observed.

Where and when the bottles are beached is information to be filed on the documents by their finders, thus completing time and direction of the voyages. Sometimes, messages are washed up 10,000 miles from their starting points.

Instructions for return are printed on the slips in eight languages including Esperanto. They emphasize that the finder will receive no monetary reward. The Navy, however, makes it policy to comply with a hydrographic map gift for the returned message.

Bottle messages have reached the Hydrographic office from every corner of the world.

Polls Open At 6:30 Tomorrow For Expected Light Voting

of state, predicted only 700,000 of Ohio's 7,000,000 war-conscious citizens would go to the polls tomorrow.

Party leaders were unanimous in their belief that the intense interest in the war killed widespread interest in the political campaign, but the lack of outstanding issues also was blamed.

In Richland county, the Democrats have only two purely local contests, for county commissioner between C. L. Mitchell, incumbent, Fred Bricker and former Sheriff E. P. Long; and the 17th district congressional contest between A. Ross Siverling of Ashland and Samuel A. Anderson, Newark.

The picture on the Republican side is much the same. John C. Friday, former commissioner, and C. L. Shoup of Plymouth seek the nomination for county commissioner, while Col. Oliver H. Dockery of Newark seeks the nomination over Congressman J. Harry McGregor of West Lafayette. Dockery has accused McGregor of being an isolationist, while the congressman has defended his record by saying his comparatively few votes against the administration have been to keep the president from obtaining too much power.

Five candidates seek the Republican senatorial nomination, and the winner is virtually assured of election since the Democrats have no candidate. The candidates are P. H. Rogers of Grafton and Joseph Jameson of Lorain, incumbents, C. J. Pittenger of Richland county, Elmer E. Borchert, Lorain county, and Ralph A. Winter of Lodi.

Most of the statewide interest centered in the five-way battle for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Political observers picked State Auditor Joseph T. Ferbuson as the man to beat, and John McSweeney, former Wooster congressman and state welfare director, as the man with the best chance to beat him.

However, with the expected small vote, it was conceded that Clarence Knisley of Bainbridge, former state treasurer and former member of the state industrial commission, has a chance to slip in with the nomination.

Only Frank A. Dye, Columbus attorney who finished last in 1940 in a field of seven, was believed out of the running for Democratic nomination for governor.

The Democratic candidates, instead of attacking each other, have pursued a policy of attacking the present administration of Governor John W. Bricker, who is unopposed for the Republican nomination. Bricker has remained silent against these attacks on the grounds that he did not wish to mix in a Democratic primary, but promised that if they are repeated by the Democratic nominee in the general election campaign he will have something to say.

Hottest fight in the congressional races centered in the 20th district in Cleveland where Michael A. Feighan, former assemblyman, seeks to unseat Democratic incumbent Martin L. Sweeney.

Sweeney, congressman since 1931, faces the hardest fight of his career. All three Cleveland daily newspapers have lined up back of Feighan, and charge that before Pearl Harbor, Sweeney voted against nine anti-Axis measures.

Film Censor Sticks To Guns Over Hula Dance Action.

KANSAS CITY—(AP)—Mrs. Eleanore Collidge Walton, head of the city's film censor board, ordered deletion of 30 feet of film in a movie which showed native girls doing an energetic hula dance.

The theater manager called her and protested, "Mrs. Walton, those hula dancers only shake a little."

"That's right," was her laconic reply. "They shake a little too much."

the dam in an effort to get the boat to the trailer bed. The two women were in the back seat of the car while Koontz drove and Craner stood on the trailer.

Koontz said that the brake of the auto let loose and the car and trailer plunged into the water. Cowell was nearby and saw the auto go down. He and Craner brought the other three to safety.

A wrecker was called from Loudonville to pull the auto out of the water. The women suffered from shock but received no serious injury.

RIOTS, STRIKES GROW IN INDIAN PROTEST MOVE

British Call on Troops To Help Halt Disorders as Gandhi's Jailed.

a flag ceremony under the tower and a procession started.

The march was led by Parabti Devi, one of the leading women in the All-India congress party.

The crowd was in a much uglier mood and the situation was much more intense today as demonstrators forced all shops to close, including a few Moslem stores that had attempted to remain open.

Many towns and cities were affected by the congress call for a campaign of non-violence to force Britain to grant independence to India and by protests against the arrests of Gandhi and many other congress leaders.

In Calcutta, congress officials said that two local committeemen, Ramnath Singh and Deoki Nandan Sha, had been taken to jail this morning for leading a small procession through the streets.

Congress leaders not yet arrested were going into hiding in various localities, promising that they would carry on underground activities.

Although Gandhi, Jawaharlal Nehru and other prominent leaders did not seek to avoid arrest, the local leaders said it was necessary to go into hiding to avoid leaving the movement leaderless at this time, especially since Ganhdi was unable to send them instructions.

Many volunteer leaders took the places of veterans who were arrested in Bombay and Delhi.

At least one person had been killed at Amhadabad, 275 miles north of Bombay, headquarters of the nationalist All-India congress whose resolution demanding immediate independence as the alternative to mass civil disobedience had percipitated a situation that threatened the defense of India against the Japanese established in adjoining Burma.

Trade was practically at a standstill in all Bombay markets today, despite a firm government order for business as usual.

Only markets in Mohammedan areas of the city remained open.

Work was interrupted at some mills and factories because workers struck in support of Gandhi's freedom-or-death exhortations.

Two policemen had died of wounds as the result of rioting here yesterday and the civilian death toll had risen to 10.

Forty-three policemen were in hospitals and at least 20 civilians had been wounded.

India's 80,000,000 Mohammedans remained aloof under orders by their leaders.

It was believed that at any hour, wizened, loin-clothed Gandhi, detained in preventive custody at the Poona palace of the Aga Khan, leader of India's 80,000,000 Mohammedans, along with Jawaharlal Nehru and other outstanding leaders of the congress, might start a fast "unto death."

There was every belief that if the fast were started it could actually end in Gandhi's death in view of his advanced age.

Reports poured in from all parts of the country of mass arrests of Nationalist leaders, as a preventive measure, and of rioters.

More than 150 persons were arrested in Bombay alone within a few hours and the situation was increasingly tense.

Hindus Told Not To Join In Protest

BOMBAY—(INS)—Vinayak Damodar Savarkar, president of the all-India Hindu Mahasabha, today called on his followers not to support the Congress party's mass civil disobedience resolution.

He urged that they refrain from taking up a hostile attitude toward the congress action, pending a decision by the Mahasabha working committee, which meets Aug. 29.

The Hindu Mahasabha is an orthodox organization of moderate political views.

London Confident On Indian Situation

LONDON — (AP) — Confidence that the government in India would be able to deal with the grave situation confronting it was exhibited today in London, where the arrest of Mohandas K. Gandhi was indorsed by an official British spokesman as an act of political courage necessary to protect the United Nations from "a stab in the back."

This characterization of Gandhi's mass campaign of civil disobedience came from L. S. Amery, secretary for India, in a broadcast to the United States last night.

"What India is up against," he said, "is nothing less than a deliberate campaign to sabotage her war effort and the war effort of all Indians, British, Americans or Chinese who are on Indian soil."

The British press for the most part found no fault with the government's action in arresting Gandhi and other congress leaders.

CHARGE OUTPUT FOR WAR LAGS

Committeemen Says Military and Civilian Officials Are Both to Blame.

of 60,000 planes this year would not be attained.

"There has nowhere been evidenced," the house committee's report said, "any intention on the part of the responsible officials, civilian or military, to regard it as their job to demand maximum output or to move heaven and earth to get it."

The committee urged reorganization of the war production board to the extent of coordinating a "labor mobilization" program with procurement programs. It termed "unfavorable" a "current drift" toward vesting control of procurement and production in the hands of the armed services.

"The production effort continues to lag," the report said. "This committee . . . points out that six months after the creation of the war production board, conversion is still just getting underway, that many durable goods industries are producing more civilian goods than munitions; that peak production is not scheduled before the end of 1943; that close supervision over contracts let is not being exercised; that small firms are still largely excluded from the war production program; and above all, that there does not yet exist a general determination on the part of responsible officials to overcome all obstacles to maximum output."

The report also criticized the policy of operating "within existing limitations on capacity" and warned that such a policy on a permanent basis may "ultimately result in cutting off the increasing flow of vital war products."

It said that the shortages of critical materials and the difficulties of manpower mobilization would disappear or diminish with better organization and more vigorous prosecution of the war program.

The committee recommended that the task of mobilizing labor for maximum production be centralized in one agency. It said the war manpower commission had been "superimposed" on several agencies, and added that the commission had issued directives to various agencies with no assurance that the latter could perform the duties assigned to them.

Becomes Bride of Jene R. Sutherly At First Lutheran Church Yesterday; Reception At Her Home.

YESTERDAY afternoon at 2:30 in the First English Lutheran church Miss Laurel Jean Lotz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lotz, 278 Myers avenue, exchanged vows with Jene Robert Sutherly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sutherly, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Rev. Grover E. Swoyer read the service.

Tall vases of gladioli decorated the church. The bride was attired in a powder blue* brushed wool jersey suit with autumn tan accessories. Her corsage was of orchids. She carried a white satin covered Bible, which was carried through the Civil war by her great grandfather and a lace handkerchief that his bride had for her wedding. Mrs. Carl Shank of Ashland, the bride's sister, wore a suit of pastel tan with leaf green accessories, same material as the bride's. She was the attendant and had a corsage of red rose buds with baby breath.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Lotz chose a tan sheer dress with white accessories and a gardenia corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a black dress with black and white accessories and a gardenia corsage. Robert Wildermuth from Ft. Wayne also attended the couple.

A reception was then held at the bride's home for 40 guests. Lunch was served buffet style from a table centered with a large wedding cake and a tall vase of pink sweetpeas. Mrs. E. F. Linn, the bride's aunt, presided at the table.

For the wedding trip, Mrs. Sutherly had a blue suit with hat to match and black accessories. She was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and is employed by the Merchants and Manufacturers Mutual Insurance company. Mr. Sutherly was graduated from the North Side high school in Ft. Wayne, also the International Business college and is at present office manager of the Kraft Cheese company here.

Guests from Ft. Wayne were Mrs. Neva Sutherly, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Achor; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Shank, Ashland; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Linn, Crestline, were the other out-of-town guests. The couple will reside with her parents until the bridegroom's induction into the army.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I WAITED a moment before answering the last question of my bizarre table companion. I did not wish to deny his request, for the air of truth and dignity in his words and manner had convinced me he really has some information concerning a menace to the safety of exiled Queen Olga and her daughter.

Yet I knew unwelcome comments might be made if this flamboyant figure came to see me at the Lansfield. Besides, with the manager Milner still a "listening post" for the gangsters, the hotel might not be a safe place for this stranger to visit.

I could see him at the Underwood home, I decided, if my father and Dicky were willing, and I did not much doubt their consent provided I was well guarded during the interview.

"I am sorry that I cannot give you an address to which you may come to see me," I said, and almost a groan came from his throat.

Arranges for Message

"But," I went on quickly, "I can give you a telephone number to call, from which a message would be relayed to me in a very few minutes. If you wish to see me in a hurry and leave word where and when I can see you, then either my spokesman can call you back, or you can phone again. I am afraid that is the best I can do."

"That is very good indeed," he told me. "I could not ask for anything better."

"Will you take this number down, please?" I said. "Just say when you call that you have a message for Mrs. Graham. But do not call within the next twelve hours. I can't make the necessary arrangements before then."

"I will remember," he said, much pleased, "and I do trust it will not be necessary to disturb you at all."

"Do not hesitate about telephoning me," I said impulsively. "You will not disturb me in the least."

"Thank you so much," he said. "And now let me take you back to your table. You said you had little time. But perhaps I shall soon take advantage of your divine kindness, and tell you my strange story. May I?"

"I shall be glad to hear it," I told him.

"Never shall I forget this," he said earnestly.

"It is nothing, I said. "And now I think I would better go back to my table."

He was at the back of my chair with a grace and swiftness of motion almost impossible for a man as old as his disguise made him appear to be, and the next instant was leading me back to my table.

Stephen Redfield rose to receive me, but my escort wasted no time upon him, Mary or Olina. He only made me a deep bow and hurried back to his table.

"Of all the colossal nerve," Mary began with ostentatious severity, "cutting in on our crush!"

"Hush!" I said imperatively. "If you must be nonsensical, wait at least till the man has gone. Look; he's paying his check now."

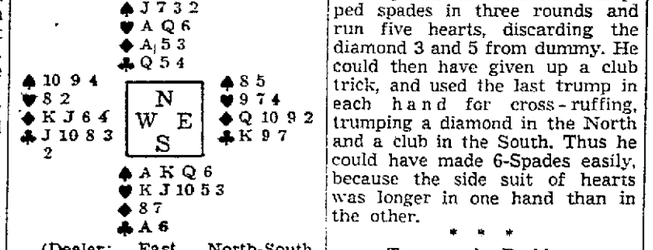
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

A VITAL PRINCIPLE

Possessing two fitting suits—such as four cards in your hand opposite four in your partner's and five in your hand opposite three in your partners—it is nearly always better to use the evenly divided suit as trump. This will enable you to use the unbalanced suit as a side suit for the discarding of losers in one of the other two suits. If, however, you name the unbalanced suit as trump, you cannot discard any losers on the balanced side suit.



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North

Pass	6 ♥

Try as he could, South had no way to avoid losing one trick each in diamonds and clubs. He won the opener, the club J, with the A, dropped trumps, cashed four spades and led a fourth heart. Then he scored the diamond A and led another diamond toward his own hand, hoping East or West had made a bad discard somewhere along the line, but neither had, so the diamond J and club K produced the setting tricks. The side suit of spades, being balinced, was worthless as a means of discarding a loser in the minors.

When North heard South's bid of spades, after having opened with the lower-ranking hearts, he knew South had five hearts at least, and one less spade, or four. He therefore favored the hearts, in which he had some honors. The information from South's bidding, though, should have shown him that the correct trump was spades. At that, after winning the club opener, he could have dropped spades in three rounds and run five hearts, discarding the diamond 3 and 5 from dummy. He could then have given up a club trick, and used the last trump in each hand for cross-ruffing, trumping a diamond in the North and a club in the South. Thus he could have made 6-Spades easily, because the side suit of hearts was longer in one hand than in the other.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, August 11.

Judging by the lunar transits affecting the affairs of this day there should be a moderate degree of activity in connection with expansive and ambitious programs, in which others may be expected to lend more than ordinary support and approval. This may be in connection with public or community advancement or well-being, in which those in high places as well as elderly persons or old-established institutions lend hearty cooperation.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a year of much accomplishment, progress and happiness, with many interests under a most expansive and productive impetus. Association of plans in conjunction with public or group welfare, in which those in position and power are ready to cooperate, should be pushed toward ambitious goals. Elders and old institutions may also be willing supporters.

A child born on this day should be capable and ambitious, with sound judgment, profound insight and practical constructive ability.

GALION PLANS RESERVOIR TO CUT SHORTAGE

May Build 50,000,000-Gallon Reserve Unit on Farm Near Morrow Line.

GALION—Acting to eleminate a water supply shortage which has forced the New York Central railroad to haul 270,000 gallons of water daily from Delaware, city officials were scheduled to meet with Morrow and Crawford county commissioners at Mt. Gilead today to discuss plans for the construction of a new 50,000,000-gallon reservoir.

The new reservoir would be built on a 100-acre Crawford county farm near the Morrow county line and would be financed by a $200,000 bond issue, according to Boyd Wierman, recently appointed as Galion city engineer.

The meeting with the Morrow and Crawford county commissioners is being held to obtain their permission to go ahead with the project. The commissioners are in charge of streams which would be affected by the construction of the reservoir.

Wierman said that the reservoir has been planned to eliminate a 20-year-old summer water shortage which has grown more acute with the growth of Galion industry. Galion's city council has already purchased the 100-acre farm needed for the reservoir site but no financial action concerning the actual construction of the reservoir or purchase of pumping equipment has been taken, according to Wierman.

Confronted by the Galion water shortage and federal priority orders on tank cars, officials of the New York Central railroad shops in Galion have been shipping water 34 miles from Delaware in sealed coal cars to avert a threatened shutdown of the shops.

It was originally planned that the railroad and the city build a new reservoir on a cooperative plan, sharing in the cost. The present plan, however, calls for the complete construction of the reservoir by the city which would sell water to the railroad.

Patrons have found at the Finefrock Funeral Home the two important things necessary to satisfactory funeral service.

First—and never to be overlooked—is personal understanding service, with equipment to meet any requirement.

Second—and equally important—every patron gets full value for the money regardless of the amount they spend.

These are probably the reasons why the families who have used our service seldom consider any other.

ASHLAND KEEPS DEEP INTEREST FOR PRIMARIES

3 Important Contests Will Be Decided in Balloting Tomorrow.

ASHLAND — More interest is being taken in the vote here tomorrow than in most other parts of the state. Especially is this true in the Democratic vote due to the contest between F. E. Wicks and Samuel C. McKinley seeking the nomination for county auditor. Efforts are also being made for a large Democratic turnout for the nomination of A. Ross Siverling for representative to congress.

Wicks seeks his third term as county auditor while Samuel C. McKinley, clerk of the Ashland county health board, makes his first bid for public office. Siverling, who is on his second term as county prosecutor, is opposed for the Democratic nomination to congress by Samuel A. Anderson of Newark. Another Democratic contest of interest here is that of Charles M. Beer and J. Freer Bittinger, both of whom are Ashland men and seek membership to the state central committee.

All other contests in the county with the exception of the Democratic nomination for county auditor are unopposed. On the Republican ballot for nomination as auditor is Lee S. Mills of Jeromesville. J. P. Hunter is the nominee on the Democratic ballot for county representative. Hunter, former county auditor and who now resides near Loudonville, is the present incumbent. The Republican candidate is J. Frank McClure of Loudonville.

Tom J. Stence of Nankin, present county commissioner, seeks a second term to this office on the Republican ballot while Edward L. Smith, mayor of Loudonville, is the candidate on the Democratic ticket.

There were 47 absentee votes cast in the county, 36 of which were by Democrats. At the last primary there were 58.

Two changes in voting places in the city of Ashland have been announced by the county board of elections. They are Precinct E of the First ward which will be in the same building as before but back of the new office of Dr. G. W. Jacoby on West Main street and Precinct A of the Fourth ward which will be in the Buick garage on East Main street.

Wayne Blackburn, through a Mansfield friend, sends a verbal word of thanks for some of the nice things that have been said about him in this column and on this page in the past two seasons.

And I should send a word of thanks back to the Indianapolis outfielder and former Mansfield Westinghouse star that there are guys around like him that I can write about.

He's saving my life this blue Monday morning.

Blackburn, who made a long bid for the American association batting lead earlier in the season, and is still swatting well over .300, says he expects to be in the big leagues come next summer.

And what puzzles me is why he isn't in the big show in a year like this when talent isn't any too plentiful. They tell me that while Wayne may never be a slugger, he'll be a .300 hitter in any league, and those birds aren't any too plentiful around the big wheel this summer.

The hill-billy boy who reported one year for a tryout with the Westinghouse team, and brought back two bucks change out of five dollars given him to buy a pair of shoes, has now been with Indianapolis three seasons.

And in addition to his .300 average, he's married and has a youngster, and isn't worried about the draft. What more does a big league team want?

* * *

Says Spiv Harris in the Mt. Vernon News:

"Our old friend Rex Hess says in his Wednesday column that Mt. Vernon wants a coach to replace Larry Swackhamer who has gone to Shelby.

"Sorry Pal, you're way off there. Mt. Vernon got a coach to succeed Swackhamer last summer. His name is Mike Prech. And he's plenty good as a cage mentor."

Alright, let's look at last Wednesday's column and see what was actually said

Quote — Mt Vernon wants SOMEONE to replace Larry Swackhamer who went to Shelby —unquote

This was written after an item in Harris' column said Mt. Vernon football Coach Tommy Thomas would be very happy to see an athlete appointed in Swackhamer's industrial arts job at Mt Vernon to help out in the coaching chores

I see nothing in my quote of last Wednesday mentioning the word "coach" And I didn't know I was considered adept at double-talk The English language must be read to be understood.

Ah, well, "he who runs may read." How's ya legs, Spix, m'boy?

Craig Wood Wins Canadian Open

TORONTO, Ont —(INS)— Craig Wood today was holder of two major golfing championships for the duration and holder of another near-record score

* * *

The big blond pro from Mamaroneck, N Y., added the Canadian Open to his U. S. Open crown on Saturday and did it with a 72-hole total of 275, or just one stroke above the standard set by Sam Snead when he won the title last year.

* * *

In clipping 13 strokes off par for the 72 holes Wood beat out Mike Turnesa of Elmsford, N Y., by four strokes, the latter having shot a last day 67 to equal the course record.

Clayton Heafner, the big North Carolina slugger, took third place with 281 and Ben Hogan fourth with 282

Concentration Wins Skeet Title

SYRACUSE, N Y. — (INS) — Dr Leroy W. Childs of Lake Kerr, Fla., today attributed his feat of shattering 250 straight targets to win the 12-gauge national skeet title to concentration he "learned in the operating room"

* * *

Private Dick Shaughnessy, formerly of Dedham, Mass., and now stationed at an army air corps training station in Texas, captured the high-over-all crown with a score of 543 out of a possible 550.

* * *

Shaughnessy also won the subsmall gauge title and had perfect scores in the small gauge and 20-gauge events, but lost in the shoot-offs.

Mrs M. L Smythe of Aurora, Ohio, won the women's 12-gauge title with a total of 248 out of 250.

Reds, Cubs Battle for 18 Innings

Play Longest Game of Season in Big Leagues.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds required the equivalent of two normal ball games to lose a very abnormal one to Chicago 10-8 in the first half of a doubleheader yesterday, but they won the half-game nightcap 2-1 to retain a percentage-point hold on third place.

* * *

The 18-inning opener was the longest major league game of a season near three-fourths gone, but it generated enough excitement to keep all but a handful of 15,326 fans in the stands until Umpire Tom Dunn called the nightcap after four and a half innings.

The first game was delayed by weather for a full hour in the 13th frame. A postponement was announced, but when the weather changed it was countermanded for a clamoring crowd. The whole show ended seven hours after the first play-ball.

The Reds and Cubs sent a modern major league record in the opened by using a total of 12 hurlers, six each. The New York Giants and Philadelphia Phils used 11 on Sept. 6, 1924—a record last equalled by the New York Yankees and St. Louis Browns July 24, 1940. In all the Reds used 20 players; the Cubs 17.

A walk, Stan Hack's fifth hit of the game, anda double off Elmer Riddle by Dom Dallessandro enabled the Cubs to score the winning run with one out in the 18th Hack scored on Phil Cavaretta's fly.

Until the ninth Claude Passeau had a 4-0 shutout, but with two out and Bert Haas on third, Shortstop Bobby Sturgeon dropped Dick West's pop fly and the Reds chased Passeau with a walk, two-run double by Gee Walker and game-tying single by Eddie Joost.

* * *

The Cubs had scored three in the first inning in four singles and another in the seventh, last frame pitched by Starter Bucky Walters.

The Cubs contributed a bunt, and the Reds a walk, passed ball and two-run wild pitch by Clyde Shoun to allow two Chicago runs in the 10th, but Cincinnati tied at 6-6 on a hit batsman, single, and west's two-run single.

Hack doubled after a walk and Dallessandro singled to put the Cubs ahead by two again in the 12th; but Joost knotted the game at 8-8, doubling after Lonnie Frey and West singled.

* * *

Johnny Vander Meer needed only 61 minutes to get his 12th victory in the nightcap. A single and Bill Nicholson's double scored a Chicago run in the fourth, but Vandy gave just two other hits and fanned five.

Meanwhile, the St Louis Cardinals squeezed past the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3, and 2-1, to trim Brooklyn's lead to eight lengths. The Dodgers bumped into a postponement at Boston.

At Philadelphia, the Giants tripped the Phils, 3-2, in the first game when Mel Ott laid down a 10th inning bunt with the bases loaded, but Bill McGee made things easier in the second game, pitching a five-hit shutout as the Giants won, 2-0.

In the American league, the New York Yankees increased their lead to a dozen games and the Boston Red Sox moved into second place although neither team lifted a bat.

It all came about when the Chicago White Sox clipped the Cleveland Indians, 11-1 and 3-2, dropping the Tribe half a game behind the Red Sox.

The Detroit Tigers had the help of 11 St. Louis errors as they downed the Browns, 9-3 and 3-1

Doubleheaders between the Yanks and Philadelphia Athletics and the Red Sox and Washington Senators were postponed until today.

Benton Plays With Pro Rams

Returns to Game After One Year of Coaching.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Coach Dutch Clark checked the roster of the Cleveland Rams as the men reported for their opening practice at Hiram today and found 15 of last year's squad, three men returning to pro ranks after a year or more coaching, and 19 rookies.

* * *

Jim Benton, pass-receiving end, was out only one season coaching, and is expected to bolster the wingmen squad. Others who have forsaken the bench for the field are Lew Bostick, guard, and Bill Lazetich, halfback. Both played here in 1939.

* * *

Lazetich will be competing with veterans Parker-Hall, Dante Magnani and George Morris for the halfback post. Colby Davis and Gaylon Smith will battle for the fullback slot vacated when Johnny Drake entered a war plant job.

* * *

The blocking back in Clark's modified "T" formation will be selected from at least six candidates now on hand: Len Janiak, a holdover, and rookies Warren Plunkett of Minnesota, Dutch Elston of South Carolina, Joe Gibson of Tulsa, John Petchel of Duquesne, and Dave Bernard of Mississippi.

* * *

Birds Knocked From Top Spot

Kansas City Takes Over Through Double Victory.

(By Associated Press)

The merry American association, where the race to the championship is about the hottest thing in minor league baseball, bobbed up with three nifty accomplishments Sunday.

1. The Kansas City Blues grabbed a double bill from Columbus, knocking the Redbirds from the lead and taking it over themselves.

2. Although his team lost twice to Minneapolis, Outfielder Wayne Blackburn of Indianapolis accepted 11 chances in the first game without an error, equaling the feat of Toledo's outfielder Simons in 1931 and Columbus' Paul Johnson in 1925.

3, Chet Covington, making his first start for Louisville, pitched and batted the Colonels to a 5-0 win over St Paul after the Saints had won the first, 6-4

In all, it was a typical American association Sunday afternoon. Even a postponement because of the weather—Milwaukee's double header at Toledo — brought a change in the standings. The idle Brewers slipped to fourth as the Millers hopped into third.

Kansas City belted Columbus, 3 to 1, in the first encounter with Tommy Reis scoring his 12th win by spacing five hits while his mates made five off Preacher Roe and Red Barrett. The Blues copped the second 7 to 8 in semi-darkness behind the four-hit job of Frank Shea and an 11-hit assault on three Columbus twirlers.

The Millers swept aside Gabby Hartnett's Indians, 6 to 4 and 5 to 3, and left them in seventh place.

NEW YORK—Wide World—To clear the track for the Hambletonian, Roosevelt raceway has called off its Wednesday night harness races and will cancel the Thursday card, too, if the big race at Goshen is delayed a day . . . Figures for the World-Telegram hole-in-one tournament starting today show the 1 000 or so guys entered to take five shots each have almost a chance to make one ace In 10 years the tourney has produced four aces in 30,380 shots, making the odds 7 595 to 1 against the trick . . . 80-year-old Amos Alonzo Stagg and 63-year-old Bob Zuppke will sit on the bench together at the All-Stars vs Chicago Bears football game in Chicago Aug 28.

HIT-AND-ERROR

Philadelphia Scribes say this actually happened, which probably explains the Phil's position in the National league standings . . . The other day Manager Hans Lobert flassed the hit-and-run signal to one of his players. The batter stepped out of the box, beckoned Lobet over from the coaching line and whispered: "You better try something else, Hans. In all the years I've played ball I never could hit and run."

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. — (AP) — Shooting a new course record of 215, W. B. (Sandy) Saunders of Chillicothe, O., won the 10th annual Blue Grass Golf tournament over the 54-hole layout yesterday. His score was five over par.

Indians Drop Out Of Second

Long Wait Between Games Fails to Help.

CHICAGO —(AP)— The long wait between games is telling on Cleveland's pitching and hitting to the extent that the Indians have dropped back to third place.

In their first major league session in four days, the Tribe lost a double header to the Chicago White Sox yesterday, 11-1 and 3-2. The twin clubbing put the Redskins a half game behind Boston and 12½ behind New York, both of whom were idle.

Cleveland will have a chance tonight to gain the final game of the delayed three-game series when Chubby Dean goes to the mound against the Windy City club.

* * *

Mel Harder was the victim in the first game yesterday. The Chisox clipped him for four runs on four hits in two innings, and filled the bases for him in the third before he went to the showers without retiring a batter. Harry Eisenstat finished the game, allowing five safeties in six sessions

* * *

Meanwhile the veteran Ted Lyons was scattering four Tribal hits, including Ray Mack's second home run o fthe year. In winning the 255th game of his career, Lyons fanned seven and walked one.

* * *

Redskin eyes were sharper in the second contest, which the Indians tied up in the ninth, and lost in the home half of the same frame.

Providents Win Shutout

Blank Cleveland Club on 9 to 0 Decision.

In spite of the electrical, hail and rain storm of yesterday afternoon, Mansfield Provident Loan girls got in six good innings of softball at North Lake park, enough to chalk up a 9-0 shutout over the Ranger A. C. of Cleveland.

* * *

It was their last game before the home fans before going to Akron to defend their twice-won state championship. The tournament opens Friday, but the Providents drew a first round bye and will not see action until Saturday.

Fran Knapp and Alice Iceman held the Clevelanders to three scattered hits, including a double by Mehringer, in hanging up their shutout win Bucky Holda got a double for the Providents.

Mansfield won the game in the first inning with a four-run splurge, and added four more in the third and one in the fourth for good measure.

Both Buckeyes Break Record

Smith Edges Nakama In New World Mark Setter.

NEW LONDON, Conn.—(AP)—Big Billy Smith, jr., and pint-sized Keo Nakama, Hawaiians, are as inseparable outside of water as Damon and Pythias. But, once inside the "drink," lookout, brother!

Smith, sensation of the national A. A. U. men's outdoor swimming championships which ended yesterday in a heavy downpour of rain, and Nakama, Ohio State sophomore, met twice during the three-day meet. The results were overtime work for the keeper of records.

Yesterday, the 17-year-old Smith and his buddy clashed in the 880-yard free style grind and both broke the world's record. Smith's longer reach provided the margin as he touched out in 9 minutes and 54.6 seconds, 13 seconds better than the listed international mark recorded by Ralph Flanagan of Miami, Fla., seven years ago. Nakama was a fraction of a second off Smith's pace.

The previous day, Nakama pushed his pal to the 440-yard free style world's record of four minutes, 39 6 seconds, more than a second off the standard set by Jack Medica of University of Washington in 1934.

Without the dark-haired Nakama to extend him, Smith, who enters Ohio State next month to study civil engineering, also hung up the American 220-yard free style mark of two minutes, 10.7 seconds on opening day. In all, this one-man record wrecker captured three crowns

Nakama, himself, came in for some glory by winning the one-mile grind, one of the four titles that went to Ohio State swimmers as they piled up 51 points to capture the team crown, 14 more than runnerup Yale.

Jim Counsilman won the 220-yard breast stroke for the Buckeyes, who also annexed the 330-yard medley and 880-yard free style relays.

Yale's only champion was Alan Ford, 18-year-old freshman from the Panama Canal zone, who led in the 110-yard free style Mike Priano of Brooklyn, N Y, and the Flatbush Boys club, 330-yard individual medley; Sammy Lee, of Occidental college and the Pasadena, Calif., A. C, three-meter dive, and Adolph Kiefer of Chicago, 110-yard back stroke, were other victors

Yet to be settled is the platform dive which has been shifted to Columbus, O., Wednesday.

CHAPTER XXIV

A gentle knock on his door awoke Gordon the next morning; the knock was repeated.

He drew on a bathrobe. "Come in—" he said.

The door opened.

"Good morning, Mr. Blake."

"Good morning, Leslie," said Gordon rather surprised.

"I'm sorry to trouble you so early, and have to come to your room, but it's best. Will you give me some advice, please, sir?"

"Why surely, Leslie. Sit down. What is it?"

"I want to leave here."

"But why?"

"Last night, after you left for bed, I sat reading in the library. Mr. Morley came in quite intoxicated."

"Indeed."

"He said that England was licked!"

"I told him that he talked like a Fascist. Then he hit me and said he was going to send me home. Mr. Blake, I want to go home."

Gordon patted Leslie affectionately on the back:

"I'd like to take you back east with me. Would you come?"

"Oh, thank you, Mr. Blake! Yes, I would." The boy smiled delightedly. "When do we leave?"

"Get your things packed in a suitcase. I may give you short notice."

"Is it to be a secret between the two of us?"

"Yes. Word of honor. Leslie, I need your help too." The boy nodded and Gordon continued, "I want to speak to my wife alone before I leave. I haven't had the chance yet. I want you to use some war strategy. You've got to form a friendlier alliance with Morley and sort of draw him off." The boy's face fell, "It's got to be—listen, this is what you can do . . ."

Ten minutes later, Leslie presented himself before Morley and Audrey and apologized for his remark made during the argument on the previous night. Morley fell into line at this appeal to his authority, was actually pleased when Leslie said he would like to be best man at his wedding to Audrey, and even laughed when Leslie asked whether he could attend the wedding dressed in cowboy chaps, bandana and spurs.

The sudden change flattered Morley and delighted Audrey so much that she immediately suggested they drive him into town and buy him the bronco-buster's outfit. That they did. The three of them drove off, leaving Gordon alone and disconsolate because his plan to get rid of Morley and have Audrey to himself failed. He walked about the grounds for a couple of hours wondering about his next move when a convertible coupe slid up the drive toward him.

"Hiya, Brad!"

"Good Lord, Cora Leroy! I thought you were in Chicago."

"So I was, pardner. Came back today. How's my beau?"

Gordon stopped short. "Okay!"

"Where is my Clark Gable?"

"Drove down to the mine," Gordon lied, hoping to save Audrey from an awkward situation.

"Who gave the old fish trap a face lifting?" she asked, pointing to the house.

"He did."

"What for?"

"To welcome the bride. Shall I tell him you like it?" Cora fell for the reference and beamed. Gordon was sparring for time to handle the reddish-haired dancer. She was something everyone had forgotten and Gordon knew she could mean trouble.

"I'm writing a magazine article and staying on at the house." Cora insisted that Gordon come to town and be her guest that night, the first night of her return engagement at the "Gold Nugget."

"Thanks, Cora; sure I'll be there."

"Fine, Brad. I go on at ten. It may be the last time you'll see me dance."

"Quitting?"

"Sure. If I get my arms around Cliff again I'll never let him go whether he's busted, blind or just dumb."

"Tonight at ten, Cora," he said as she drove away. "I'll send you some roses."

Gordon wondered whether Cora would run into Morley. It was quite apparent that she had not thus far.

Morley, Audrey and Leslie returned early that afternoon, bringing with them a bald, sour-faced attorney, hugging a leather brief case. Leslie let out a long "Yippee" as they alighted. He was booted and spurred in rodeo fashion, a silver buckled belt around his chaps.

Morley reflected some pleasure too, but for a different reason. He explained to Gordon in affable fashion that the attorney had everything in readiness for the transfer of the Double Jackpot to Audrey.

Gordon's heart pounded. That meant he was moving out. Morley had rushed the affair gleefully. They signed the papers in the library, with Gordon acting as one of the witnesses. Morley folded the deed, then handed it to Audrey.

"There you are, my dear. The Jack Pot now belongs to you."

As Gordon was packing his suitcase somebody knocked on the door. When he opened it, he saw Audrey.

"What did you mean by this note?" she asked.

"I'll tell you," he answered in a low voice. "Come inside."

"If it's some sort of horrible joke—"

"Then you can have him all to yourself. But it isn't. Every word in that note is straight."

"Do you realize what this note implies? Why did you tell me that Laurie Morley died in the room I am using?"

"Because I want you out of it. Giving his mine to you was a trick, the mine's loaded with debts. You can check up at the bank."

She listened with alarm as Gordon continued: "He fought for that mine. He murdered for it. Do you think he'd hand it over to you so sweetly if there wasn't some slick idea in that brain of his"

"Murdered for it? You're insane to make such an accusation!"

"You know about Laurie? Did he ever tell you how she died? A big healthy woman!"

"I've never asked. Why should I?"

"Then ask him. Ask him a lot of questions."

Swiftly he revealed everything he had intended to tell her at Moonhollow. Why he had left her. What he had been doing while he was gone. He told her of his experience with Morley at the Willoughby hospital, the file card, the doctor's report, then bluntly, he told her of Morley's real physical state, and the reason for the amputation of the hand. It was no mere infection. It was radium poisoning.

She stood pale-faced and quiet while he described the weird phosphorescent animals he had taken from the attic of the house. He showed her the laboratory report on them.

"It's all evidence, Audrey—horrible evidence—and I say this only because I must. I'm convinced that Morley murdered his first wife."

"Gordon, you must be out of your mind!"

He glanced at her.

"Insane, am I?" He told her more of the story, told the details to her quickly while the words could fall hot upon her receptive ears. He told her about Alvin Oliver, forger and ex-convict. How he lived with the Morleys as Morley's friend.

She stood there wide-eyed as he told her of the clues he had unearthed. She was shocked with his accusations.

"No, you can't accuse him that way, Gordon. That's circumstantial evidence and you can't convict him on that."

"And I say I will convict him. He'll be convicted like any other criminal because that is what he is."

She breathed heavily as though what he said burdened her.

"I must leave now," she said at the door. "It isn't true. I must not listen. Mad jealousy is prompting you!"

"He's a criminal," Gordon continued intensely, "a criminal!"

She closed the door. In the hall she hesitated, turned her head again toward his door, touched her lips thoughtfully, then forced back her inclination to return to his room—and went to her own.

Her mind stricken with increasing doubts and fears, she was mulling over the web of the circumstantial evidence Gordon had woven.

THEATERS

Jungle Film Continues.

Returning to the screen once again at the Ohio theater in a jungle role is Dorothy Lamour, looking as bewitching as ever. Sandwiched in between the many thrills are some hilarious scenes. Much of the fun is engendered by an amazingly intelligent chimpanzee named Go-Go. This time it is tall, handsome Richard Denning who is Dotty's sweetheart. He's got the body beautiful, acts very well, and leaps through the trees in the best tradition. In addition to the thrills and comedy of this beautiful production, you'll enjoy Lamour's singing of the new song hit, "A Full Moon and An Empty Heart."

'All Kissed the Bride'

Attraction at the Madison theater is Joan Crawford and Melvyn Douglas in "They All Kissed the Bride." The gay, new love story is a far cry from any of Miss Crawford's recent films, and one which introduces her in a comparatively new light. Roland Young, Billie Burke and Allen Jenkins are other members of the comedy cast. Concerning her part, Joan said: "It's about time, too, that I wear modern clothes, kiss anyone I wish and get into the kind of trouble that results in complication and laughter." Other feature is Van Heflin in "Grand Central Murder."

Bette Davis Film.

Playing the second day at the Ritz theater is Bette Davis in "In This Our Life," with George Brent, Oliva deHavilland and Dennis Morgan. The film is set in the South, where a once proud family has lost much of its prestige. Bette plays the role of Stanley, a capricious, inconsiderate girl, who believes that her own happiness is the only thing that counts. She hurts the three closest to her and makes life miserable for herself. The picture is taken from Ellerr Glasgow's best-seller and has had much publicity. Second feature is "Shadows of the Underworld," with Valerie Hobson and Barry K. Barnes.

Autry Sings Again.

Popular singing cowboy, Gene Autry, returns to the Park theatre to play in "Heart of The Rio Grande." Music lovers of "Deep in the Heart of Texas," will be glad to know that this is included. Autry, who is the foreman of a dude ranch, transforms a petulant, spoiled and unhappy child, Edith Fellows, to a wholesome and loveable youngster. Others in the cast are Smiley Burnette and Fay McKenzie. A new Frankenstein is the second bill, Lon Chaney, in "The Ghost of Frankenstein."

PAM—The Riddle. By A. W. Brewerton

EVERY TIME AN ACT OF SABOTAGE HAS BEEN COMMITTED, CARNEY, THE HEAD FOREMAN, CLAIMS HE HAS SEEN BRONNER GOING THROUGH THE PLANT JUST PRIOR TO THE DISCOVERY OF THE DAMAGE
8-10
OF COURSE, THAT COULD BE JUST A COINCIDENCE, BUT BRONNER INSISTS HE DID NOT GO INTO THE PLANT AT THAT TIME; AND, WHAT'S MORE, HIS OFFICE STAFF BACKS HIM UP ON THE CLAIM THAT LOOKS BAD FOR THE FOREMAN, DOESN'T IT?
MAYBE--BUT WE HAVE AN F.B.I. MAN PLANTED AS A WORKMAN IN THE SHOP, AND ON THE LAST OCCASION OF DAMAGE HE CONFIRMED THE FOREMAN'S CLAIMS!
I CAN'T GET IT.' WHY SHOULD BRONNER WISH TO DESTROY THE PROPERTY OF WHICH HE IS THE CHIEF OWNER, THE PLANT WHICH HE WAS MAINLY INSTRUMENTAL IN HAVING CONVERTED TO WAR USE ?

CURRENT SCRAP SUPPLY NEARS ACTUAL NEEDS

Some Consumers Operate on Dangerous Margins, Says Magazine 'Steel.'

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Narrow price shifts either way clouded the direction of today's early stock market.

Boardrooms studied the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said that "in the face of tremendous consumption of scrap, current supplies are fairly close to actual needs, with some consumers operating on dangerously narrow margins."

Notice was taken of forecasts of industrial observers that, despite curtailment in building of plants for military equipment, total construction activity in the next several months may come close to or exceed the high volume of the latter part of 1941 Erection of factories for the production of raw materials, it was expected, would take the place of abandoned war plant projects.

NEBRASKA FOOLS JAPS, PROVIDES A NEW TAPIOCA

So What the Enemy Took Away From Us In Java We Can Replace Easily.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Wide World Science Editor)

LINCOLN, Neb. — The Japanese got America's tapioca source, too, when they grabbed Java and the rubber, but Nebraska has fooled them.

A tapioca starch equal to or better than that which came from Java has been discovered in a sorghum which grows so profusely in Nebraska that the Cornhuskers soon may be calling themselves the state where the tall tapioca grows

Tapioca is made from the starch of the Cassava root. Like rubber, Cassava originated in Brazil and was imported to the East Indies. Manioc is the Brazilian name.

Everyone knows tapioca for puddings, jellies and soup. More important are its other commercial uses. These include adhesives for various uses and sizing for paper and for textiles. Cassava starch gives fine thead the smoothness which saves it from fraying against other fibers. It gives adhesives which stick instantaneously and tenaciously.

Corn and potato starch have been tried as substitutes, but neither has equaled tapioca for its special uses. The peculiar properties of Cassava starch have been discovered in Leoti sorghum starch, at the University of Nebraska. The research is in charge of R. M. Sandstedt, of the Agricultural Experiment Station.

Compared with Leoti and Cassava, Sandstedt says potato starch is tough and has a bitter flavor. Corn starch retains a slight flavor. Leoti, like Cassava, is entirely flavorless, gives a clear tender gel which does not retrograde and gelatinizes at a low temperature.

Leoti came originally from China. It was imported first to Indiana years ago for use in making syrup. Later it was planted in Kansas for forage and from there it went to Nebraska where it became popular. Leoti did wonderfully during the dust bowl years Its acreage actually increased, due to drought-resistant qualities.

At the same time it mixed with other sorghums so that of Nebraska's present 200 000 acres of Leoti only about one-tenth is pure enough to make tapioca But Sandstedt says there is enough seed of the pure variety to supply the nation's probable needs

The grains of Leoti are red and tan, about the size and shape of popcorn The yield in Nebraska is good, with promise of farm profits. Leoti starch makes a tapioca more uniform than the Cassava root.

SCIENTISTS HOME FROM SALVADOR

BERKELEY, Cal — (INS) — The Stirton scientific expedition to Salvador has returned to the University of California, ending a successful expedition with 3,000 specimens of reptiles, birds and animals.

The expedition leader, Dr Ruben A. Stirton, Curator of Mammals in the Museum of Paleontology at the university, said a great number of botanical and geological specimens will arrive in the near future.

In addition to being a scientific success, Stirton said, the expedition was "well received" in Salvador, which, he added, no longer regards Spain as its mother country but looks to the United States.

Fireman Thinks He Has Enough Mascots

Engine Company No. 30 in Forest Hills, New York, had a nice mascot, but now the firemen have too many nice mascots, because Queenie has presented them with 11 additions. Fireman George A. Cook is pictured, above, mulling over the situation while Queenie and her booted offspring look unperturbed.

CALIFORNIA DAM NEAR COMPLETE

Huge Structure Will Be Fourth Largest in the World.

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — Concrete pouring is complete on Friant dam, fourth largest structure of its kind in the world and an important cog in California's huge Central Valleys Project.

A total of 2,130 480 cubic yards of concrete went into the project, which dams 520,000 acre feet of water to be used as a cushion for seasonal high water originating in the upper San Joaquin river and for irrigation in central California counties.

Rising 320 feet above its base, the dam is 3,430 feet long at its crest. The base is 265 feet wide.

Although concrete pouring has stopped, work on the structure is not yet complete, according to District Engineer R. S. Calland of the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation Work will continue for some weeks on installation and painting of metal work, backfill and clean-up operations. Another several months will be required for drilling of grout holes in the dam's foundation.

The first bucket of concrete was poured at the structure July 29, 1940. During August, 1941, operations reached their peak when 228,769 cubic yards were placed.

The dam is located about 20 miles from Fresno. It is a straight gravity structure and has four river outlets, four outlets into the Friant-Kern canal and two in the Madera canal.

Repercussions of War Are Felt In Moonshine Belt

JASPER, Tex.—(INS)—"It twarn't the revenoors that stopped moonshinin in the east Texas hill, it was the Axis." These, or words with the same phonetic twang, make up the latest bit of sad news in the moonshiners' belt which reaches cross country from east Texas to the piney woods on the edge of the Atlantic basin

Moonshiners, whose fathers, grandfathers and great-grandpappys were moonshiners before them, constitute one of the hardest priority hit classifications of all the small businessmen.

Copper, vitally necessary in the whiskey boilin' business, is number one on the priority list. And no provisions have yet been made for supplying the illegal cookers of the hill-billy brew with an occasional copper worm.

As if this weren't trouble enough, they now find it impossible to get sugar in sufficient quantities to run off a few jugs of the potent corn spirits. (Someone with book-larnin figured out that if a family saved its sugar coupons for ten years, they would have enough to run off a small batch of five gallons or so).

BUILDS AIR FREIGHTERS

SANTA MONICA, Cal.—(U.P.)—Douglas airplane factory has revealed that the construction of "double boxcars on wings" for the army are far past the drafting stage. These flying freighters, it stated, will weigh about 125,000 pounds, with a speed of 200 miles an hour and that 100 of them will do the work of 209 of the present giant, four-motored C-54's.

EVACUATION HITS FLORAL INDUSTRY

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (INS) — California's floral industry is expected to suffer a $12,000,000 loss because of evacuation of Japanese from the state's various defense zones.

Previously, it was pointed out, Japanese produced most of the 700 carloads of cut flowers shipped from California yearly.

In addition to producing over 60 per cent of the state's floral export the Japanese had always furnished markets with a wide range of flowers

"Milady's corsage will suffer because of the war," predicted John Brown, of the Southern California Floral Association.
